Preparing Heavy Works on the Hun, Where They Probably Intend to Make a Strong Stand for the Protection of the Sacred City, Mukden

JAPANESE SEARCH PARTIES FIND HEAPS OF SLAIN

They Lost 5000 in the Recent Battle, Tokio Reports; This Number Being Probably the Dead, As the Casualties Reported At One Position Equal That Figure.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 20. A dispatch to the Bourse Gazette from Mukden, dated Oct. 19, says that a detachment of the Russian vanguard on the west front surrounded a Japanese battalion and compelled it to lay down its arms.

TOKIO, Oct. 20.—Reliable reports received from private sources estimate the losses of the Japanese left army during the recent battle at about 5000.

The number of Russian dead is largely increased by the further discovery of bodies, notwithstanding the nightly removals by lantern light.

The Russian forces have been reinforced by about 30,000 men of the Seventeenth corps, a large portion of the Tenth corps and portions of the Fifth and Sixth Siberian corps, which recently arrived in all six divisions of the Russian army now confront the Japanese left army.

Heavy rains have impeded the movements of the opposing force since Oct. 17. Chinese report that heavy works are ready for the Russian advance along the Hun river. The Japanese are undecided where the next stand will be made.

It is announced at headquarters here that the left Japanese army captured near Langkoueh six ammunition cars, 534 rifles, 429 rounds of field gun ammunition, 20,000 rounds of rifle ammunition and 2000 rounds of machine gun ammunition.

Additional casualties of the center army just reported are 12 officers killed and 30 wounded.

LONDON STRATEGISTS ARE MYSTIFIED BY KUROPATKIN'S MOVES

LONDON, Oct. 20.—English newspapers and military critics find it difficult to ascribe the exact strategic significance at Lanchow to Gen. Kuropatkin's action on the Shihke river. It is supposed that his success there was due to having kept three divisions of troops in reserve, and it is admitted that the attack on Lanchow Free hill may have been an intentional counterstroke after drawing out the Japanese from strong positions. The balance of opinion, however, favors the idea that it was a desperate endeavor to cover the retreat of his forces from the Shihke district and that the battle of Shihke may be considered to have ended in a victory, but not a decisive one, for the Japanese, who were too exhausted to follow up their success.

Special dispatches from St. Petersburg make mention of a crushing defeat of two Japanese divisions. There is no confirmation, however, in any reliable source of such a report.

According to the Standard's correspondent with Gen. Kuroki, who telegraphed under date of Oct. 18, a Russian battalion which crossed the Taisse river on a beam almost annihilated. While retreating over a pontoon bridge, the correspondent says, that battalion was overtaken by a regiment of Japanese cavalry which got its machine guns into position and swept the bridge from end to end.

TWO RUSSIAN PARTIES ARE ADVOCATING CESSATION OF WAR

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 20, 7:55 a. m.—The Novoe Vremya this morning, deprecating the renewed talk of foreign intervention in the Russo-Japanese war, says:

"Such talk, based upon the fact that now and again the voicing of an urgent desire for peace is heard in Russia, must reflect the marvelous ignorance or indifference on the part of foreigners to Russia's true internal condition. 'The fact is, that in Russia, as in other countries, there are several parties; two of these want peace—the extreme reactionaries, because they constitute what was known in the United States during the Spanish-American war, and in England during the Boer war, as 'peace at any price' men and the ultra radicals, because they are in favor of a humiliating peace which would weaken the present government. But these parties are insignificant beside the great body of moderate progressives, who wish to see Russia's interior economical capabilities developed to their fullest extent and who realize that only through a decisive Russian victory in the far East can the wound be healed, not plastered.'"

ENTERTAINS AMERICANS

LONDON, Oct. 20.—King Edward today entertained at luncheon at Buckingham Palace the officers of the American warships now at Gravesend, the guests including Rear-Admiral Jewell, commanding the European squadron of the North Atlantic fleet; Capt. Colby of the cruiser Olympia, U. S. N. C. W. C. Watt and Charles T. Jewell, aide on the staff of Admiral Jewell; Ambassador Choate, Secretary White and Capt. Choate, U. S. N. C. Jewell, the attaché of the American embassy. The officers were all in full uniform. Admiral Lord Walter Kerr, first guest of the admiralty; Capt. Prince Louis of Battenberg, director of naval intelligence, and Sir Thomas Dutton were included in the luncheon party, which was quite of a private and informal character.

CHINESE CONSPIRE TO EVADE LAW AT WORLD'S FAIR

—Frank P. Sargent,
Commissioner of Immigration.

Persons in the Chinese Village Charged With Trying to Retain Women From the Celestial Kingdom in This Country in Violation of Exclusion Act.

BOND FORFEITURES ARE FIGURED AS EXPENSES

Officials Are Especially Charged to Prevent the Success of the Scheme, Hints of Which Have Reached the Immigration Bureau.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—"I saw enough at the World's Fair on my recent visit to convince me that at the Chinese Village a scheme has been designed to get a number of celestialists into the United States in defiance of the exclusion law," said Commissioner of Immigration Frank P. Sargent this morning after returning from an extended trip of inspection through the West.

The developments in the cases of Lee Toy and De Silva, who are under arrest, charged with violating the law relating to the illegal importation of Chinese women into this country, tend to confirm my suspicions, if it needed confirmation. "There is no doubt that a number of persons identified with the Chinese Village are figuring on keeping many of its inmates in the United States."

"The fact that every one of its inmates are under bond will not altogether deter the conspirators from operating, for the profit that would result from a successful effort on their part would probably exceed the pecuniary loss due to the forfeiture of a bond."

"However, I am determined to prevent any escapes from the Chinese Village through the subterfuge of inmates' threefold naturalized Mongolians or any other trickery," concluded Mr. Sargent. "My force of officials at St. Louis have positive and definite instructions to guard against violations of law in every way and I intend that every celestial brought here in connection with the Chinese exhibit shall be deported immediately after the close of the Exposition."

BROTHERS UNITED AFTER FORTY YEARS

A. C. Campbell and Capt. Dave Campbell Meet for the First Time in Nearly Half a Century.

After a separation of forty years, A. C. Campbell of Pittsburg and Capt. Dave Campbell of St. Louis have been brought together by the World's Fair.

A. C. Campbell was a lad of 15 when Dave Campbell was a boy of five in the East. Dave went away to be a river man and never went back to the old home. He became a captain and then the head of a wrecking company and at last the owner of several boats.

From time to time his brother, who had gone into the mill business near Pittsburg, heard about his brother Dave, but they did not meet.

When A. C. Campbell, now 55 years old and retired from active business, decided to determine to try to find his brother. On his arrival here he made inquiries at the office of the pilots' association and learned that Capt. Dave Campbell was in charge of the Laura at the foot of Walnut street.

He went upon Wednesday and found the captain and made himself known, and the effect on Capt. Dave, who has not been well of late, was better than medicine.

Capt. Davis was not well enough to visit the World's Fair with his brother, but he will spend all the time he can with him on the boat while he remains in the city.

CREW HELD FOR DEATH OF CHILD

Edward Simpson, motorman, and J. Turnbull, conductor of the Bellefontaine car which struck and killed Olive Spencer, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Spencer of 2714½ South Jefferson avenue, Tuesday evening, were declared guilty of culpable negligence by the coroner's jury Thursday in the inquest into the death of the child.

The alleged negligence consisted, according to the verdict, in the fact that the car was run too fast at the crossings. Mrs. Etta Spencer, mother of the child, who was injured in trying to save the child from the wheels, attended the inquest. The accident occurred on the 18th birthday of the child. She had gone with her mother to a store. As her mother wanted to buy something for the child to wear the next day to the World's Fair. On the way back the child, in her eagerness to see the car on which her father is conductor, ran into the street in front of the Bellefontaine car and was killed.

SEEKLESS CAUSE OF DIVORCE SUIT INNOCENT PARTY TO DIVORCE MAY REMARRY

Timothy Manning Sued by Wife and Settlement Out of Court Is Not Unlikely.

There is prospect that the Manning divorce suit, which has been pending in Judge Kinsley's division of circuit court for several days, will be settled by an agreement reached out of court.

The hearing was suddenly adjourned Thursday when a point was reached where, according to interested persons, there was a probability that the names of William Manning, 38 years old, and his wife, Mrs. Manning, 34 years old, who have been married 44 years, and have several grown and married children.

Mrs. Manning alleges that their married life was happy until a few years ago, when her husband came under the influence of a fortune teller, who, it was testified, is known to her as Mrs. Bannon.

Mrs. Manning's daughters—Mrs. Annie Burns and Mrs. Julia Garretty—testified that appeals had been made to the fortune teller, but were rejected and she had remained her infatuation over Manning.

Various indignities were alleged. Mrs. Manning said her husband once threw a slipper at her. At another time it was said he kicked the infant of the Manning family, a young business man who called on one of his daughters before her marriage.

If a compromise is effected, it is understood that William Manning will give his wife a $10,000 payment, but that there will be no provision for a reconciliation of the old couple.

FROST WILL NIP FLOWERS

Still Cooler Weather Promised for Tonight—Skies Will Be Fair for Three Days.

A share of the colder weather which prevailed this morning in the lower Missouri and Mississippi valleys and in the south-west will yield frost in St. Louis and vicinity tonight, according to the official forecast.

The weather, however, will be fair. Promises of showers were dispensed by the movement of the storm area central over the lower Missouri valley Wednesday northeastward to the lake region, where it has yielded rain and high winds.

The forecast: "Fair tonight, Friday and Saturday; cooler tonight, with frost; continued cool Friday; brisk west to northwest winds diminishing."

The West Indies hurricane is still hovering near the Florida coast, causing a continuation of the stormy conditions in that region.

Experts on Indians at Lake Mohonk. LAKE MOHONK, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Today's session of the Mohonk Indian conference was devoted to the consideration of problems in the Philippines. Dr. Fred W. Atkinson, who organized the American public school system in the Philippines, was the first speaker today. Dr. Atkinson was followed by W. Leon Pepperman of the bureau of insular affairs of the war department. Brig.-Gen. G. A. Goodale followed Mr. Pepperman.

North Dakota Town Burned. PEMBINA, N. D., Oct. 20.—Fire, which broke out in the business section of Old Pembina, has done damage which is estimated at $20,000, with partial insurance.

Episcopal House of Deputies Cancels in the Compromise Resolutions of the House of Bishops Limiting the Marriage of Divorced Persons.

BOSTON, Oct. 20.—The House of Deputies at the Episcopal general convention today adopted by a large majority the compromise resolution on the divorce question, by which the innocent party in a divorce for adultery may remarry after one year on the presentation of satisfactory evidence of the fact.

The forces favoring a rigid divorce canon in the Episcopal Church and those who opposed them were present in full strength at today's session of the House of Deputies, an agreement having been reached yesterday to consider the issue and settle it, if possible, for the present. The contest came before the deputies on the question of concurring with a resolution adopted by the house of bishops forbidding the remarriage of the "innocent party" in divorce for infidelity.

The action of the bishops was met yesterday by the committee on canons in the House of Deputies, which proposed as a compromise an amendment forbidding remarriage within one year after the granting of a decree by the civil court and compelling clergymen to examine the court records before performing the ceremony.

DEATH FOLLOWS ICE WATER CRAFT MISSING GIRLS RETURN HOME

Aged Man Dies in Government Building at World's Fair After Leaving Missouri Building.

Isaiah E. Aultman, 52 years old, of Bryan, O., dropped dead in the government building at the World's Fair at 1:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, shortly after taking a drink of ice water, at the Missouri building.

It is supposed that the ice water, coupled with the cold weather, affected Aultman's naturally weak heart and caused his death. Mr. Aultman, who is a farmer, was visiting Charles W. Story of 1205 North Taylor avenue. Mr. Story accompanied him to the Fair Thursday. In their rounds they visited the Missouri building. Mr. Aultman was thirsty and he took a drink of ice water. The two then walked over to the government building and were looking at an exhibit of harvesting machinery when Mr. Aultman dropped dead.

His body was taken to the Temporary Hospital and forwarded to the morgue.

Marie Large has been found, and her grandfather and little sister are happy again. The publication in the Post-Dispatch Wednesday of the story of the disappearance of Marie Large of 505 Evans avenue and Clara Conrad of 340 Thomas street brought tidings of them to their anxious relatives, and now they are back at their homes.

It was a girlish ambition to make their own way in the world that caused them to run away from their homes. Each obtained employment with a west end family, and they were getting along nicely, but when they learned how much they were missed at their homes, they made no objection to returning.

All of their relatives were glad to have them back home, but the grandmother and little sister of Marie were made particularly happy, because their grief had been great over her disappearance.

GIRL OF 16 WITH CONFESSED BURGLAR AND CHECK FORGER

Miss "Jimmie" Hardy Elopel From Home in Birmingham, Ala., With Benjamin H. Brumby, Expecting to Be Married in World's Fair City, Only to Find Him an Ex-Convict.

HE STOLE CHECK BLANKS AND FILLED THEM OUT

Keen-Eyed Bank Clerk Who Has Fondness for Pool Recognized Man Who Cashed Bogus Checks at Bank of Commerce When He Saw Him Playing in Pool Tournament.

Confronted with the fact that the man with whom she eloped from Birmingham, Ala., eight weeks ago, on the promise of a marriage when they reached St. Louis is a forger, a burglar, an ex-convict and an habitual crook, "Jimmie" Hardy, a 16-year-old girl with big blue eyes, fifty brown hair and a petite figure, weeping, asked whether her mother will receive her if she should seek to return to her home.

The girl is not suspected of complicity in the man's criminal work. She went voluntarily to the office of Chief of Detectives Desmond Thursday morning and answered with seeming frankness all his questions. She was kept at the Four Courts several hours, but was not placed under arrest. The man says the girl had no part in any of his crooked deals.

The man is Benjamin H. Brumby, 31 years old, who has been a contestant in a professional pool tournament at a Broadway billiard hall. He claims the title of "champion pool player of the South," but other pool players say he is not a champion. He beat Alfredo De Oro at one meeting, but that was his only victory.

He admits that pool playing has been but a "side line" with him since he came to St. Louis. In the three weeks that he has been here he says he has committed two burglaries, forged twelve checks, passed one of them for $500, tried to pass another for $300, and reserved the others, calling for a total of $300, for other attempts.

Brumby is the young man who, Tuesday afternoon, attempted to pass a forged check for $500, bearing the name of T. B. Henderson & Co., a brokerage firm in the Commercial building, at the National Bank of Commerce. The paying teller, I. A. McGirk, detected the forgery, and when he stepped from his cage to compare the signature with an original, Brumby darted from the bank.

A negro porter gave chase, and the pursuit continued to Broadway and for a block north, Brumby escaped.

While Brumby was in the bank he was seen by one of the clerks who is a lover of the game of pool and who spends some of his leisure time in billiards. This clerk had seen some of the pool tournaments at the Broadway billiard hall, and had seen Brumby in the crowd around the table.

The clerk told Mr. McGirk of his recognition of Brumby, being he was going to enter the pool tournament. He was to be married as soon as we got here. I did not know anything of his past and thought the money he had was earned or won at the pool table.

Tuesday when he left the house he wore a heavy suit of brown, which he had brought to St. Louis, a brown derby hat and a pair of tan shoes. He came back to the house about 5:30 o'clock (this was three hours after he had attempted to cash the forged check for $500 at the Bank of Commerce) and before he went downtown again he took off his heavy brown suit and put on a suit of blue serge, a pair of black shoes and a black soft hat with a stiff round brim.

Girl Under Age Held by Police

This was the suit Brumby was wearing when he was arrested.

"I had seen the dark lantern and skeleton keys in his grip, but I did not know what they were for. I did not see him making out the forged checks, and knew nothing of his burglary of the two offices. 'I want to go back home, but I don't know whether my mother will let me come back. I haven't much money and no friends here.'"

She wept frequently while she was telling her story. She does not look any older than she says she is—16—and shows evidence of refinement. She was stylishly dressed in a brown suit, a brown hat trimmed in ribbons and bows of brown silk, and a three-quarter length tan cloak that fit her petite form closely.

She was taken to the detention room, as will be held until her mother is heard from. There is no charge against her, but as she is under age the police are holding her.

A warrant charging Brumby with forgery will be applied for.

At the Pine street residence near Thea Avenue at which Brumby and the young woman had rooms, it was learned that nothing was known of the pair. It was the custom of Brumby to leave the house at 11 in the morning. It was stated, and he would usually not return until midnight or later. The young woman was seldom away from the house except for her meals. They had no visitors and were very quiet. They made no friends among other young people in the house, with the exception of one couple, who occupied adjoining rooms.

BENEFIT OF CLERGY NOT FOR MEDIUMS?

Question of Half-Rate Railroad Tickets Puzzles Delegates to Spiritualists' Convention.

The National Spiritualists Association, in convention at the Temple of Spiritualism, 205 Pine street, was made a boiling caldron Thursday morning by the suddenly put question of who is a minister and who is not, and what is a medium and what is not, over the fact that some of the delegates to the convention had secured half rates, while others had not.

The discussion overshadowed the challenge of the Anti-Mediums Association, which was the absorbing topic Wednesday and was dismissed in a few words by President Harrison D. Barrett, who said that the challenge had "blown up and fallen of its own weight."

A delegate requested that it be explained who was entitled to half rates on the railroads, and Mrs. M. T. Longley, secretary, attempted to explain.

"Any person who makes a part of his or her income by books, charms, seances, private sittings or by secular work on a newspaper," said Mrs. Longley, "is not a minister and is not entitled to half rates. But a platform medium, who gives platform readings and works to secure converts to the faith is a minister and is entitled to the half rates."

This interpretation of ministers did not suit many delegates, who jumped up and clamored for recognition. G. W. Jates of Philadelphia was given the floor.

"Any Spiritualist who is legally ordained is a minister," he said, and he proceeded to explain that only the state associations of Spiritualists had power to legally ordain a minister.

The national association approved the ordination of the state associations, he said, and only the ministers who were so approved were entitled to ride on railroads at reduced fare.

Here President Harrison D. Barrett explained his views. He said that many of the ministers who had been ordained by the state associations and approved by the national association had been "turned down" by the railroads because after investigation the road officials found that the ministers were getting their income from private sources and not from public platform readings. Thus, he said, the actions of the railroads was in accord with the explanation of Mrs. Longley.

But the question was far from being settled.

Mrs. E. L. Garbreath made an appeal for all mediums, those who made their living by private seances and public readings.

A. S. Bedloe of Poncha, Kan., replied quickly, supporting this argument by saying that anyone with the brain of a catfish would not go into spiritualism for the money there was in it.

Mrs. M. E. Cadwell of Philadelphia created a tumult among the delegates when she said that many Spiritualists in Philadelphia applied to her to send their ordination papers to the national association to be approved as "they were not to travel."

She said that many Spiritualists viewed themselves of ordination merely to get half rates.

"No self-respecting woman or man would do such a thing," replied Mrs. Jennie L. Brown of El Compo, Tex. "This practice must be discontinued if it exists. There should be no desire for pecuniary gain among true Spiritualists."

She said she knew of cases where persons had traveled to conventions on half fare and then charged full fare to the conventions. "These practices must stop," she insisted.

MRS. J. H. GORE, WIFE OF SIAM'S ENVOY, WHO ACCUSES JEFFERSON GUARD OFFICER

Mrs. J. H. GORE

As a means of stopping the argument a motion was made to lay the matter on the table, with the understanding that action would be taken on the question of half rates as soon as the committee on ordination reported.

RESTRICTIONS ON OIL PROSPECTORS

Must Have $5000 in Bank and Furnish a $2000 Bond to the Government.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—A questionable practice has been inaugurated in the matter of leases of oil lands owned by Indians. It is being done by order of Secretary Hitchcock, and is in the form of a letter. This order requires the officials who are charged with the duty of making the leases to require the prospective lessee to show a certificate of deposit for $5000. If the man who wants to lease land for the purpose of satisfying himself whether there is or is not oil where he suspects it may be found cannot show such a certificate of deposit, he may not have the lease.

The application does not discover this at the outset. All he gets when he makes application for the rules and regulations is a copy of the statutes that may apply and a copy of the rules formulated by the head of the department.

The letter requiring the exhibition of a certificate of deposit of $5000 he leaves about when just about ready to close the deal—not before. Ninety per cent of the men who have drilling tools are not able to make such an exhibition of idle money, and they are the ones who develop new territory. But for them there would be no "wild-catting" as the drilling of wells in strange territory is known among oil producers.

As a rule a driller tries to keep his "string" of tools at work all the time. When he has no contracts he goes into the business of prospecting in any part of the country except Indian Territory and other Indian reservations.

If he has a desire to do work in those parts of the country he must find a backer who has much idle money. He must find a man like Col. J. M. Guffey of Pittsburgh, or one of the scores of underlying companies which constitute what is known as the "Standard Guffey."

It is a notorious fact that the Standard is not anxious to have new territory developed. Whenever or wherever a well is found to produce oil in paying quantities it means that the Standard must make arrangements to stifle it or grab it.

The impression conveyed to applicants for Indian land leases is that the showing of $5000 on deposit in a bank is merely for the purpose of establishing their responsibility. The shrewdness of such a pretense is evident when it is remembered that a bank account is subject to checks payable on sight.

Having made the $5000 showing the applicant must give a bond in the sum of $2000 for the faithful performance of the contract between himself and the Indians made on behalf of the latter by the government of the United States. Subordination of Secretary Hitchcock have the power to say whether the bond offered is a good and sufficient one, but even if they had not that power, the users of a man like Col. J. M. Guffey of Pittsburgh, or one of the scores of underlying companies which constitute what is known as the "Standard Guffey,"

Without his approval the lease is not sent to the agent. The man who wants the lease stops at that point and he does all the work he has done, no matter how good a faithful performance bond he may be able to give. The $5000 provision may not have been made for the purpose of favoring the Standard, but it does work Secretary Hitchcock can learn the fact easily if he does not already know it.

CROWD'S EAGERNESS CONRAD'S DEFENSE

Jefferson Guard Commander Has Not Made Report on Charges of Commissioner's Wife.

Secretary Stevens of the World's Fair said Thursday that the expected report of the alleged indignities to Mrs. J. H. Gore, wife of Prof. J. H. Gore, commissioner-general from Siam to the World's Fair who charges Capt. Charles Conrad with responsibility for rough treatment of her in the Hall of Congresses during the Heen Keller day exercises, has not been received from the commander of the Jefferson Guard.

Prof. Gore is now in Washington, where he went to file complaint against Capt. Conrad with the war department. President Francis ordered an investigation of the matter when formal complaint was made by Prof. Gore Wednesday that his wife had been roughly ejected from the hall by a Jefferson Guard at the order of Capt. Conrad under her own protest.

When the report is made, it is understood it will include a general report of the immense crowd that surrounded the Hall of Congresses Tuesday when Miss Keller spoke.

Before Miss Keller appeared, all the seats in the hall were occupied and the aisles were filled with persons who were standing.

Mrs. Gore stood near the door leading to the hall. Orders were given for the aisles to be cleared and it was then that Mrs. Gore was escorted from the hall by a Jefferson Guard.

The prominence of Prof. Gore, who is also a member of the superior jury of the World's Fair, and professor of mathematics of Columbian University, has given a diplomatic tone to the investigation.

MANY ORATORS AND RED FIRE AROUSE GOTHAM

The Spectacular Campaign Opens
With Rival Meetings—Republicans
Concentrate on Madison Square
Meeting and Score First Outward Success.

DEMOCRATS PLAN BUSY PROGRAM FOR REST OF WEEK

Court Proceedings Expose Alleged Colony Plans of Young Van Cott—
Scores of Prominent Citizens Compelled to Prove Their Right to Vote.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—This city "woke up" politically at last.

Whatever of apathy there has been is being dissipated nightly in clouds of red fire and drowned in a cyclone of campaign oratory. Fireworks smear the heavens with red, on every conspicuous corner car-tall speakers about the doctrines of party, and every prominent thoroughfare is parade ground for torchlight processions and marching clubs.

It began last night when, for the first time in 1904, it looked like a Presidential campaign. It is to burst forth again tonight, when a big bunch of distinguished Democratic orators from all parts of the country will speak at Carnegie Hall. On Friday night Grover Cleveland and John
G. Carlisle will fire the Democratic battle.
Last night it was primarily the big Republican night; every Presidential year the Republicans throw themselves on one particular meeting, and last night's session at Madison Square Garden fulfilled all the traditions of their campaign effort.

Further down town the Democrats held their great tariff reform mass meeting at Cooper Union, and Edward M. Shepard,
Senator Bacon of Georgia, John G. Carlisle and others did for the Democrats what Vice-Presidential Candidates Fairbanks, Gubernatorial Candidate Higgins, Ellihu Root and some others were doing for the Republicans at the larger hall.

Brooklyn Also
Had a Meeting.
Over in Brooklyn there was more Republican thunder. Fairbanks spoke at the Clermont Avenue Rink, with Secretary of the Treasury Shaw.

Besides these there were district ratifications, jubiliations, congratulations and gatherings all over the city. In short, New York had such a night as nobody dreamed could come from the present campaign.

The most spectacular event of the night was the Republican function at Madison Square. Besides the crowded garden, there were a score of more corner overflowing, a gorgeous display of fireworks, immense bands and swarms of cheering citizens.

Inside the big hall the enthusiasm and excitement were at least equal to that of the outdoors.
"No apathy" was the watchword of the night. The stage was set entirely with a view to make this a demonstration of record, and no chances were taken. The cheer-ers were all in their places and they did their work with the thoroughness and effectiveness of a trained army.

The college boys were all there with their college yells, the natural rivalry of the different institutions moving them to vocal efforts that have never been exceeded on any football field.

The military marching club, 500 strong, all in white hats and cape coats, carrying red, white and blue umbrellas, marching in, and every one of the 200 umbrellas was sent spinning, while the crowd all over the hall rose and cheered them. It was worthy of a big band production, which it much resembled.

Day Hours Are Devoted to Fraud Charges.

The usual ante-election writs, colonizing frauds and their opposing persecutions are monopolizing the daytime hours of the party leaders. Gov. Odell, as chairman of the Republicans, spends the entire day directing in person the work of the men who are attacking the right of many New Yorkers to register and vote.

He announced that court proceedings would be instituted against about 1000 who had registered and whose right to vote was in question. On the first day of registration, the police were handed the names of 20,000 persons who for one or more of various reasons were alleged to be without the right to vote. In this list, by carelessness or otherwise, went the names of prominent citizens who were called upon to prove that they had not died since the last election.

The trial of Postmaster Van Cott's son, Richard, who until recently was the assistant postmaster, is unfolding the usual alleged brazen attempts to colonize in the doubtful districts. According to the evidence the price to be paid for such votes was $1 to register, $2 to vote and sixteen days' board.

ASPIRANT FOR YACHT CUPS
Kenneth Clark of Glasgow Has Been in Correspondence With New York Club.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.
(Copyright, 1904, by the Press Publishing Co.)
LONDON, Oct. 20.—The Yachting World says: "Kenneth Clark, one of the foremost of the Clyde's racing yacht owners, has been in negotiation with the New York Yacht Club, and the latter has agreed to let him provide a cup challenger next year."

Gould on Inspection Tour.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SEEDALIA, Mo., Oct. 20.—President George
J. Gould and other officials of the Missouri Pacific arrived here on a special train from the West at 9 o'clock this morning. They did not stop at the station but passed on to the shop grounds in the eastern suburbs and inspected the new $1,000,000 machine shops in course of construction. After an hour's survey the visitors went East to Jefferson City.

DRIVER'S WIT SAVES WOMEN IN RUNAWAY

Wealthy Brewer's Wife and World's Fair Visitor Thrown From Carriage, But Injuries Slight.

HORSES GUIDED INTO A TREE

Collision Made Them Stop and Prevented Their Galloping Down Steep Hill in Forest Park.

Mrs. Joseph Griesedieck of Kirkwood, wife of a wealthy brewer, and Mrs. James Ogden and two sons of Deadwood, S. D., owe their safety, perhaps their lives, to the quick action of their coachman, James Rustig, in driving into a tree when he found the horses attached to the carriage in which they were riding beyond his control Wednesday afternoon.

Although the carriage was overturned, and the occupants hurled to the ground with great force, they were not dragged, and escaped with only minor bruises.

Both Mrs. Griesedieck and Mrs. Ogden were still nervous Thursday morning from the effects of their exciting escape.

Mrs. Griesedieck and Mrs. Ogden and the latter's two sons, Robert, aged 12, and Lawrence, aged 15, are the guests of Mrs. Henry Griesedieck of 2738 Russell avenue.

They visited the World's Fair, starting to drive home a few minutes after 5 o'clock. Leaving the south side entrance they did not notice the horses were nervous, though both are spirited animals, until the States' entrance was reached.

At this place both animals suddenly leaped forward, shying a little to one side. They nearly jerked the reins from the coachman's hands. He managed to retain his hold upon them and did all in his power to bring the horses to a stop, but the animals were beyond control in a moment and started on a gallop down the winding road leading into Forest Park.

Realizing that a serious accident could not be averted unless the horses were stopped before they reached the long and steep hill a few hundred yards farther on, the coachman guided the frightened animals close to a tree, which stood at the side of the road.

One wheel of the carriage struck the tree, bringing the horses to a quick stop and throwing them from their feet.

The vehicle was overturned and wrecked, and the occupants were thrown to the ground, where they lay for a moment as though stunned. The coachman retained his hold on the reins and then rushed to the heads of the frightened horses, soon quieting them.

The occupants of the carriage soon found that they were uninjured, and were able to go to their homes without medical attention.

Mrs. Griesedieck suffered the most severe bruises, though it was stated by Mrs. Henry Griesedieck Thursday that her injuries were not serious.

CARNIVAL FOR OLD ALBANY

Strait-Laced Capital of New York Will Imitate New Orleans on All Hallow's Evening.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Business men and newspapers here have united in planning a unique public celebration to take place on Oct. 31, in honor of Hallowe'en. Funds have been raised by popular subscription which will be expended in a carnival lasting through the day and evening. In the morning one of the prettiest girls in the community can find will be crowned Queen Titania, and over 50 persons in costume will take part in the ceremony on the broad stairway approach to the capitol.

The queen and her retinue will then proceed to the city hall, where the keys of the city will be received from the mayor to be used in a symbolic unlocking of the four gates of the city. The evening will be devoted to a parade of floats and masqueraders and an attempt will be made to reproduce the carnival scenes of New Orleans and Italy.

The May Way

THIS is no haphazard business. When we took over the Crawford store, nearly one year ago, we laid down certain principles which seemed the essence of fairness and good business judgment. The test of time has proven them correct, as this institution has grown in this short time to the honored position of the Leading Store of St. Louis.

In the main, the contributing points which have made this remarkable success possible, are having the right goods at the right time and a conscientious fulfillment of every promise made in print or otherwise.

This extreme carefulness and total abstinence from the slightest exaggeration, has created a confidence which is our most precious asset—one to be carefully nurtured and guarded, because without it all businesses descend to mere bartering, with the wisest one always the gainer.

Send your children or use our splendid "phone service" for your slightest wish. Your interests come first, and, if possible, we are more careful when the selection is partly or wholly in our hands. Read our announcements with perfect confidence. Our reputation and well-being is behind them, with your satisfaction considered first, last and always.

NECK BROKEN IN FALL FROM CAR

Aged Negro Topped From East St. Louis Car on Broadway, Near Twelfth Street.

BODY REMAINS UNIDENTIFIED

Victim Appears About Seventy Years Old and Death Occurred Instantly After the Accident.

An unidentified negro of 70 years fell from an East St. Louis street car at 9 o'clock Wednesday night and broke his neck.

The car was running on Broadway between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, and the old man wanted to get off. He failed to ring the bell in time for the car to stop at the crossing and attempted to jump off. He was thrown headlong and was dead when they picked him up.

The body is at the Karpus undertaking rooms, Division avenue and Third street.

SPRINGFIELD GETS THE CHATAUQUA

Baptists Young People's Union Selects State Fair Ground Site—General Assembly Session.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 20.—The Baptist Young People's Union, which is in session here in conjunction with the Baptist General Assembly, decided to hold the annual Chatauqua in Springfield hereafter. The meeting will be held at the state fair grounds, where facilities for camping will be furnished. Galesburg was Springfield's competitor for the assembly.

The third day's session of the assembly opened with a devotional service led by Rev. A. A. Benfield of Hoopston. The moderator then appointed the committee on resolutions, which is composed of Rev. O. O. J. Price, Rev. B. F. Rodman and Rev. E. C. Cady. As members of the committee to arrange for the next session he named Rev. George E. Burlingame, Rev. W. C. Keastland and Rev. R. E. Manning.

Rev. Edward P. Bland, general superintendent of state missions, held the attention of the assembly during his early session with an account of his work of the missions. He declared the state of Illinois presented the greatest mission field in the Union. He explained his statement by calling attention to the hundreds of new mining towns which are springing up in the coal fields and which are without churches.

The committee on Christian stewardship reported through Rev. H. H. Berry of Joliet. Addresses were made by Rev. John V. Whiting, Rev. M. W. Douglas, Mr. Nellie L. Bishop of Chatauqua. The committee on Sunday schools reported through Rev. W. B. Morris of De Kalb.

BATTLE OF SANTIAGO—2, 4, 6, 8, 10 daily. Don't fail to see it on The Pike.

STARVING ON DESERT ISLAND

Eleven Men Stranded by Wreck, Found as Provisions Were Getting Very Low.

NORTH SYDNEY, B. C., Oct. 20.—After subsisting on scant rations for several weeks during which they suffered intensely from the cold, the 11 survivors of the stranded steamer Viking have been picked up from otherwise uninhabited islands off the coast of Labrador by the tugboat H. Thomas, which had been dispatched to their relief. They were taken to the Hudson Bay Co.'s post at Repulse and the tug has returned here. When the men were rescued their rations had dwindled to an insignificant amount of salt pork, and water and their condition was desperate.

The Viking, with a full cargo of provisions and supplies for a lumber concern at Grand River, Hamilton inlet, was wrecked at Shag Rocks, Grosvenor bay, in August. Soon after a gale swept the wreck carrying away the greater part of her stores and forcing the crew to abandon her. Captain and two of the crew sought refuge on a small island to the windward of the wreck, while the other eight men reached an island to the leeward. A vessel first sent to bring back the Viking's crew was also wrecked. The Viking is a total loss.

CHARGE BOY WITH MURDER.

Eight-Year-Old Lad Killed and Left in Woods.

LOOMIS, Mich., Oct. 20.—A 16-year-old newsboy has been arrested in connection with the death of Arthur Burwash, aged 8. The dead boy lay in the woods 10 hours with his left leg almost entirely shot off below the hip. One of his two companions had shot him accidentally. It is alleged, and becoming terrible, that the boy was the victim of a swamp and after covering him with leaves, abandoned him to his fate.

Clyde Harvey, aged 12, alleged to have threatened with death if he reported the accident. The boy who is alleged to have done the shooting, about his customary duties until compelled to accompany a search party for the victim.

He denied all knowledge of the missing lad's whereabouts until the party reached a spot where the groans of the dying lad could be heard.

Through Cleveland, Cleveland, O., Via Vandalia-Pennsylvania, 12:45 noon daily, arriving Cleveland 7:30 a. m.

PUTS BAN ON CO-EDS' DANCES.

Syracuse Students Hear That Hops Are to Stop at Once.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 20.—Chancellor Day of Syracuse University has declared in an address to the students that dancing must cease.

The chancellor so decided because of the dances given by an organization of college women who have been holding weekly parties at the Westminster Hall. Dr. Day said:

"These dances mitigate against scholarship and study. What we are here for is to study. Any attempt to divert a student's time will be taken as a deliberate notice of your intention to be no longer one of us."

The chancellor's ultimatum has caused consternation among the students.

CONGRESS CONDEMNNS JAP WAR

Freethinkers Favor Arbitration as Means of Settlement and Arrange to Amalgamate Societies.

In accordance with action of the International Congress for Progressive and Liberal Thought, arrangements will be begun at once for the amalgamation of the German Free-thinkers of America and the American Secular Union.

At the closing session of the congress, held in the hall at Twentieth and Dodder streets Wednesday, the committee on amalgamation reported in favor of placing the organization of free-thinkers on the basis of monistic philosophy, thus endorsing Ernest Haeckel, the great German atheist.

A committee representing both federations was appointed to carry on the work of union by correspondence.

On motion of W. H. Maple of Chicago, the war between Russia and Japan was condemned and arbitration was favored as a means of settling international differences.

John Maddock of Minneapolis addressed the delegates at the closing session Wednesday night.

ORRINE CURES INTERPERANCE

Publicly Indorsed by the superintendent of the great PEOPLE'S MISSION, who says:

Washington, D. C., February 20, 1904.

Gentlemen:—It is a very gratifying thing for me to report to you that Orrine has proven to my entire satisfaction to be a specific for drunkenness. A patient who had been drinking about a pint of whiskey a day for a great many years was completely cured within ten days from the time he took the first dose of Orrine, and he is now restored to perfect sobriety. I shall be glad to have you refer any person to me for a verification of this statement. I am convinced Orrine is a cure for that terrible disease, drunkenness. With your great success, I am,

W. C. McMICHAEL,
Superintendent People's Mission.

A SIMPLE HOME TREATMENT!
To cure without patient's knowledge, buy Orrine No. 1; for voluntary treatment, buy Orrine No. 2.
Cure Effectual or Money Refunded.

Imperator et Rex

Few great men are really understood during their lives, and those whose knowledge of the German Kaiser is derived chiefly from newspaper cartoons ought, in all fairness, to read an account of his life by one who knows him. They may do so, to their enjoyment, in "Imperator et Rex," by the author of "The Martyrdom of an Empress"—a fascinating, intimate biography, rich in personal anecdotes.

A Dog's Tale By Mark Twain

Whoever reads Mark Twain's "A Dog's Tale" for the sake of the author's keen humor and refreshing style, will not be disappointed; yet few can read it and not be moved to tears. It is one of those rare books which appeal to grown-ups and children, too. It is in holiday dress, with illustrations in color by W. T. Smedley. It is a book you will buy as a gift and then keep as a possession.

Jess & Co.

There are two kinds of dialect—abortive English, and a crisp, racy speech that makes old ideas seem new and new ones twice as witty. In "Jess & Co.," J. J. Bell who wrote "Wee Macgregor" gives the real Scottish flavor. A tale that touches the heart while it amuses.

The Russian Advance

In these days, when the world is anxiously watching the conflict in the Far East, this authoritative work by Senator Alfred J. Beveridge is a book to read, and to read carefully.

The Truants

By A. E. W. Mason, is a brilliant successor to "The Four Feathers." One grows enthusiastic over the man who sacrifices military glory to save his wife's good name.

OKLAHOMA WILL "SHOW" COUNTRY

Train Loaded With Grain, Fruit, Orators and Advertising Starts on Eastern Tour.

FOUR DAYS AT WORLD'S FAIR

Band Concerts Will Attract People Who Will Be Told of the "Promised Land."

ENID, Okla., Oct. 20.—Twenty-five cars loaded with Oklahoma advertising left Enid today at noon en route to New York city. On the way to the nation's metropolis, four days will be spent at St. Louis, where arrangements have been made for the big train to exhibit in the World's Fair. The train will arrive in St. Louis Sunday. Stops will be made at all cities and towns between here and New York. It is the famous Dixon Oklahoma train, divided into two sections, with brass bands, corps of speakers and a small army of advertising agents representing 20 odd towns and cities of the territory. A carload of literature, consisting of a carload of literature, which will be distributed along the line traveled. The brass bands will draw the crowds and the speakers will issue verbal invitations to the people of the North and East to visit the "promised spot of the world."

Last June, Syl Dixon announced there would be an Oklahoma train leave Enid this month and invited the territory cities to take part in the advertising enterprise. So many responded that "I could not be cared for. The following were selected as being representative of the sections in which they were located: Enid, Pawnee, Apache, Clinton, Thomas, Howard, Anson, Alva, Cherokee, Custer, Catoosa, Drummond, Carter, Garber, Krenshaw, Hunt, Perry, Wagon, Blackwell, Hunker, and Koma.

The twenty-five cars carry quantities of corn, wheat, flour, broom corn and other farm products to be disposed of in an Eastern market. They are loaded with the cream of Oklahoma's production. An exhibit car carries samples of fruit, vegetables and kindred farm products, and housed in a sleeper is the army of advertising agents, who are expected to tell of the merits of the country and city sending them.

The train left over the Frisco and will spend four days at the World's Fair. After four days at the World's Fair, the train will go to Chicago over the Michigan Central.

This is the ninth train Mr. Dixon has promoted on similar trips. Since 1891 he has taken six from Kansas and this is the first from Oklahoma. The train is decorated with bunting and farm products making a unique exhibit. The Enid band will be the conductor.

A public reception was held just before the train started, the premier being the guest of honor. The train was preceded by several beautiful floral offerings by the people of this city.

AGENTS DISCUSS RATE CUTTING

Fire Insurance Men Still in Session at World's Fair.

The committee on resolutions of the Local Fire Insurance Agents Association, which is in convention in Redial Hall at the World's Fair, will report Thursday on the proposition of Delegates J. M. Barrett of Louisville, Ky., to fight rate cutting agents and companies in every city where the association is represented.

In offering his resolution Wednesday, Mr. Barrett explained that if the association should make a united effort to meet the cuts of the rate-cutters that they could soon put a stop to the practice.

Henry W. Eaton, United States manager for an English insurance company, read a paper at Thursday morning's session. He was followed by Donald McPherson, president of the Louisville board, and John F. Lyons of Tacoma, Wash.

EARLY DAY PAINTER IS DEAD.

Henry Lewis Painted Scenes in St. Louis Before War.

John Lewis of 5433 Clemens avenue has received word of the death of Henry Lewis, painter, who lived in St. Louis before the war, and who painted many scenes of the Mississippi and of St. Louis in the early days.

In 1837, at the close of the Black Hawk war, Lewis went up the Mississippi and painted several scenes, afterwards floating back to St. Louis on a flatboat. A number of his St. Louis paintings are in possession of the Missouri Historical Society. He was going to London as United States consul. He has since remained abroad, where he continued his art. He was 83 years old.

CONCESSIONS CLERK RESIGNS.

C. B. Pfahler Will Take Business Position in Chicago.

Charles B. Pfahler, chief clerk of the department of concessions at the World's Fair, has tendered his resignation to acting chief of Concessions John A. Wakenfeld to take effect immediately. It is not probable that a successor will be selected as the end of the Exposition is drawing near.

It is stated by Mr. Wakenfeld that Mr. Pfahler is going to accept an excellent position in his line of work, to export account. He will go to Chicago, his home, before coming to St. Louis in March.

Mr. Pfahler organized the accounting system used in the department of concessions at the Columbian Exposition.

SEVEN NAMES PUZZLE COURT.

Clerk Wanted Naturalization Applicant to Bring in Best of Party.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—"Jacques Marie Joseph Maurice des Rois de la Beauce," said a very polite applicant for citizenship to a clerk in the United States district court, yesterday morning.

"What is your name?" asked the clerk.

"It is I," said the applicant, winking.

He came a turn before United States Commissioner Glick and remarked "Jacques Marie Joseph Maurice des Rois de la Beauce."

"One at a time; no at a time," said the commissioner, without looking up from his desk. "And it will cost $20 to take such one of those men as you are."

"I give you my name," said Mr. Des Rois, bowing again.

He is a native of France, born in 1837, living at 12 West Eleventh Street, St. Louis. He is now a resident of St. Louis, and has been in the city for some time. He is a very good citizen, so he got his first papers.

COLLEGIANS REVIVE OLD GREEK TRAGEDY

The Wonderful Story of "Ajax" to Be Portrayed by Many Berkeley Students.

WILL SPEAK THE OLD TONGUE

Fifteen Men Will Compose Chorus and Render Classic Music as Spectacularly Prepared.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BERKELEY, Cal., Oct. 17.—The fine acoustics and cypress trees which look down into the beautiful Greek theater here are to see something new under the American sun—a Greek tragedy given in the open air, just as it might have been given thousands of years ago among the hills of Greece.

The opening of the theater a year ago was celebrated by the production of "The Birds," under the direction of the classical department.

It is more of an undertaking to give the tragedy than was contemplated, and to assist the students in this effort President Wheeler and the department of Greek invited Miss Mabel Hay Barrows of New York to come to California and take the direction of the "Ajax" of Sophocles. She is here and the work is well under way.

The story of Ajax makes its appeal today as much as it did when it was played before the old Athenians, 40 years before Christ. It is as follows:

Ajax Dies

by Own Hand.

The arms of Achilles had been awarded, after his death, to Odysseus, though Ajax was generally considered second to Achilles among heroes of that day. Ajax was angry with thwarted ambition and vowed vengeance on the men who had voted against his claims. In the dead of night he went out to kill these foes, or at least the chief of them, Agamemnon, Menelaus and Odysseus. Athena, who loved him none too well, turned his blind fury against the cattle which had been brought in as booty. When morning dawned and reason returned he was overwhelmed with remorse and determined to end his own life.

He bids farewell to wife and child and friends, his warriors and sailors from Salamis, and seeking a secret spot on the seashore buries his sword hilt in the sand, falls on the point and dies. His heart-broken wife finds the body, but before it can be removed Agamemnon and Menelaus arrive in anger, declaring that the body of the would-be murderer must be left a prey for birds of carrion. Teucer, half-brother of Ajax, demands decent burial for the dead chieftain, and through his persuasions, backed up by the unexpected approval of Odysseus, permission is granted to Teucer and his friends to deal with the body according to usage. The play ends with the funeral procession, the little child leaning his hand on his father's bier, warriors and sailors following, with Tecmessa, the stricken wife, a picture of sorrow and desolation.

Ancient Music

Used by Chorus.

The chorus, made up of fifteen men, so distinctly a feature of a Greek tragedy, plays an important part. The music for this chorus was written specially for the play. The composer, Willis Peck Kent, of New York, made a study of all the scraps of Greek music that have survived to the present time, including the famous hymn to Apollo which was unearthed at Delphi ten or a dozen years ago. The voices are accompanied by a quartet of clarinets. The simplicity of this drama, with its unity of thought and action, is its main charm. It is rich in beautiful lines and interesting in grouping. It is a masterpiece that moves the hearts of those who see it acted, even though they may not understand a word of Greek.

The "Ajax" was played first, in modern times, in Cambridge, England, in 1882, by university students. It was revived last November by Miss Barrows, who gave it in Chicago, with Greek actors. So successful was it that she was invited to try the same experiment in New York and four performances were given in New York City last March.

A committee has been formed in California to assist in awakening a public interest in this classical production. The list of names includes nearly a hundred representative men and women of the state, from Palo Alto to Sacramento, with a score of public spirited San Franciscans, presidents of clubs, leaders in society, education, art and literature, who are warmly seconding the efforts of the department of Greek in the university.

The training of the students is left for their academic instructors. They are required to read and recite a good English version till they are familiar with the story of the play, the action it demands and the emotions that are required. After some competition for parts they are assigned in accordance with the material that offers, certain requirements having to be considered. Ajax must be the largest and tallest of all; Odysseus should be a man of mature age and handsome; the messenger fleet; the attendants strong enough to shoulder Ajax after the death scene; Tecmessa pathetic and slight; her attendants pretty and graceful. These physical requirements have been fairly met among the students and graduates at Berkeley. Miss Barrows herself takes the part of Tecmessa.

Greek Will Be Spoken.
Then comes the learning of the lines, no small task, when a hundred and fifty or more lines must become so familiar that they trip from the tongue with ease and fluency, sounding like poetry. Added to this difficulty is the fact that the modern Greek pronunciation is used in this production. The accepted pronunciation of the university is the old Braconian, but on account of its superior musical quality, especially for singing, Miss Barrows prefers the living pronunciation.

It was the joy of giving a play in an outdoor setting that induced Miss Barrows to cross the continent in the heat of summer and spend two months drilling the students in their lines, dances and singing. Every day and all day long she was found in the beautiful theater training the actors by ones and twos, or by larger groups, in spite of the hundreds of wayfarers, Templars, Odd Fellows and ordinary folks who wander the hills to enjoy the California wonder nestled among the which are even indebted to the Greek very names they bear—sycamorphus prun.

GETTING A KITE OUT AT THE WORLD'S FAIR

Sixteen-Year-Old Lad Receives $500 From the Management of Exposition.

J. B. Wardwell of Stamford, Conn., 16 years old, is today the proud possessor of $500 received from the World's Fair as first prize in the kite-flying contest at the Exposition Tuesday. Wardwell, who is the son of Dr. S. C. Wardwell of Stamford, with his three-foot box kite, set the pace for the other contestants and easily carried off the honors.

His kite remained up for the required two hours, reached the highest altitude, over 500 feet, attaining an angle of 71 degrees.

J. N. Tatout of St. Louis won second prize of $250, and H. B. Bristol of Webster Groves carried off the third prize of $100. The latter two flew kites of the Eddy pattern.

Prizes were not awarded in the second contest because of failure to comply with conditions. No kite reached an altitude of a mile. Estas J. Covonne of Chicago, J. N. Tatout of St. Louis and William King of St. Louis came nearest to winning the three prizes, respectively. The jury made the awards Wednesday afternoon after meeting in the Transportation building.

HERE ARE SIX USES TO WHICH MEN OF SCIENCE PUT THE KITE

KITE flying is a very serious business, as well as a pastime for boys, according to the distinguished scientists who have been handling kites in the competition at the World's Fair aerodrome the past two days. Percy Hudson, superintendent of aeronautics and one of the judges of the kite competition, gives the following six practical uses to which kites are now put, and these, he says, show why such kite competitions are worth while.

1. For carrying life lines and calls for help to the shore from vessels which have been driven ashore in a storm. In such cases the wind always blows landward and kites started from the ship always sail toward the land and may be manipulated to carry messages or life lines ashore.
2. For scientific experiments in the upper air. In most cases instruments are sent to high altitudes attached to kites and these temperatures, barometric pressure and cloud conditions are studied. In England kites large enough to lift three men have been used and the men have thus gained the same end as if they were in a balloon.
3. For commercial advertising, big kites being sent up carrying signs and banners.
4. For studying the lifting power of the air. In this way kites are helping to solve the problem of aerial navigation.
5. For signaling in war.
6. For photographing scenes and objects which are otherwise inaccessible to the camera. The camera carries a cord attached by which the man on the ground may operate its slide at the right moment.

ONE MAN WHO DID NOT LOSE

Ex-Cotton King Sully Made Special Arrangement Whereby Senate Employee Only Saw Profit.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—That the huge speculations in cotton engineered by ex-King Daniel J. Sully had peculiar ramifications was developed at the last session of his bankruptcy proceedings.

Sully was asked why a customer, James M. Baker, had been accorded unusual privileges by the firm, such, for instance, as not being called upon to make good his losses.

Sully tried to dismiss the matter by answering that he did not keep tabs on Baker's account nor the account of any other customer, but when the ex-king's former partner, S. P. Morse, was placed on the stand he was more frank.

When asked what he knew about Baker, Mr. Morse replied:

"The firm granted Mr. Baker unusual privileges, did it not?"

"Well, yes, not called upon to produce money when other customers were."

"Well, we thought Mr. Baker might be useful to us in the legislature. Mr. Sully had some ideas concerning legislation on cottonseed, and we thought Mr. Baker might be a valuable aid to us."

Envelope Is Only Clew.

Detectives have a letter addressed to San Francisco containing a letter of credit for $1000 and two railroad tickets belonging to Miss L. Stims, which were stolen from a cottage at 824 Maple avenue two weeks ago. The envelope, addressed evidently in a disguised hand, is the only clew the detectives have.

DEATH LOSSES IN RACE OVER PULLEY

Boy Caught in Belt Is Whirled, Pounded and Hurlled, But Escapes Uninjured.

Caught by a pulley belt, raised to the ceiling, jerked and whirled around and beaten against the wall until nearly all his clothing was torn from him and then hurled fifteen feet through a doorway to alight on the ground uninjured is the remarkable experience of Joseph Schmidt, 15-year-old son of Andrew Schmidt of Edwardsville.

Schmidt is employed by the Edwardsville Pressed Brick Co. His work is to remove any foreign substance that gets in the machinery.

Wednesday he climbed upon the older's platform to look after a journal which he suspected was not. He was caught by a belt lace and pounded against the ceiling by the revolutions of the line shaft. He

LIVE, HE LOOKED ON HIS OWN GRAVE

Walsh Had the Keeper's Word for It, and He Hasn't Solved the Mystery Yet.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
TROY, N. Y., Oct. 19.—William P. Walsh of this city visited the rural cemetery last week and there looked upon his own newly made grave. He is the freight-delivery clerk of the Citizens' line of steamboats plying between Troy and New York.

In relating the circumstances, Mr. Walsh said:

"In 1855, while I was at sea as a sailor, my folk purchased a lot in the cemetery, and my father, mother, sister and a brother are buried there. This week I paid a visit to their graves, and the first thing that met my gaze was a newly made grave. I knew that four of the family rested there but had not heard of a fifth. I called the cemetery keeper and asked him who was buried there.

"William Walsh," replied the keeper.

"And how long has he been dead?" I asked.

"About six weeks," said the keeper.

"Where did he die?"

"At one of the hospitals in the city."

"Well," I said, "I'm William Walsh; it is my family lot; my parents and brother and sister are buried here, but I did not know until now that I was."

"The keeper came near fainting."

Wednesday Mr. Walsh called on the undertaker who had buried the body, but he did not appear to know anything about the identity of that body.

Yesterday when I revisited the cemetery," Walsh said, "the undertaker and the cemetery authorities had been there and had taken up the body and placed it in another lot. This is not the first time I have been reported dead, but it's the first time I ever looked upon my grave."

STUDENTS WILL BE OLD PEOPLE

Philanthropic Educational Institution in Which Age Minimum Is Sixty Years.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Oct. 19.—Beginning on Dec. 1 next the Home College Co., which came into existence as the result of the work of Rev. John M. Driver, of the People's Church, will receive students of over 60 years of age at Johnson City, Tenn.

The board of directors of the college, which has been operating for the past two years in Chicago, has prepared to accommodate 200 students in the classical, scientific, biblical and post-graduate courses. The new college building was formerly a summer and winter resort hotel.

In establishing the southern branch of the home college the board elected Rev. John Fletcher Spencer, president of the faculty, who made assurance that all would be in readiness for the 200 students, who come from Chicago in early December.

The company paid $150,000 for its new property.

"We have received assurances from several states," said Prof. Hamilton White, secretary and general manager of the college company, "that our institution will be successful. It is likely that the next branch institution will be located in Nebraska."

"We have agents now working in Chicago forming parties of ten to go to the Johnson City institution, where the board and instruction will be moderately cheap. In fact cheaper than staying at home. The Chicago college closed in the Ellsworth building about two months ago, and will not be opened again until spring, after the winter's work in the South has been completed. The headquarters of the college will always be maintained in Chicago, and the branch institutions, which seem to be growing in number, will be established wherever deemed necessary."

It is taken up by attendance at religious services, lectures and inquiry in scientific investigation.

The institution is peculiar in several ways. It is philanthropic, primarily. But the aged persons who desire to occupy their minds in the last days with study are charged a stipulated tuition. A system of endowment policies has been established, whereby a young person may take out a policy which will permit him to remain in the college the rest of his life, after 70 years of age. This plan will necessitate the building of many colleges in various states in the future, but at present there will be little extension of the work.

The southern branch college will receive men and women of thoughtful and scientific mind, and those among the students who have been retired from the ministry or from positions in college will be given classes in various lines to care for.

TEXAS GIRL REALIZED LIFE'S DREAM BY "TALKING" WITH HELEN KELLER

Miss Ruby Rice.
Ruby Rice of Austin, Tex., blind and deaf, realized one of her life dreams when Helen Keller held her hand in hers and "talked" to her at the World's Fair. In many ways their lives have been similar, and Miss Keller has served as a constant inspiration to the little Texas girl. When but 15 months old, sight, hearing and speech were lost to Ruby Rice as the result of meningitis. Unlike Helen Keller, it was not possible for her to enter school until she was 13 years of age. She had not been 10 days at school before she knew 64 words. Again unlike Helen Keller she was not extremely desirous for knowledge. She was satisfied with the amusement study gave her for some time, but became wearied with continued effort. She learned to write, read and speak without great difficulty. As an inducement to encourage work and study she was promised a visit to St. Louis on Helen Keller day. Her joy was great and she did all in her power to earn the pleasure. She was accompanied here by her teacher, Miss Mamie Hoffmeyer, and Superintendent Blatman of the Texas School for the Deaf.

CLERGYMAN'S DREAM AS MURDER CLEW

Officers Follow Identity Thus Revealed and Secure Patchwork of Strong Evidence.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MIDVALE, N. J., Oct. 17.—Remarkable testimony about the imprint of a bloody hand on the wall of the room in which Mrs. Cordia Steward, a negro, was murdered, was introduced as the coroner's inquest, and resulted in the jury holding Joseph Miller for the murder. The testimony showed the red outline fitted Miller's hand perfectly, and when that fact was added to other evidence the jury decided Mrs. Steward had come to her death at Miller's hands.

Testimony of a remarkable nature was introduced. One witness, the Rev. John W. Lewis testified that on the night of the murder he dreamed Mrs. Steward was being killed and that Miller was doing the killing.

Charles Hudson, a negro, testified he lived in Mrs. Steward's home in Haskell, and that a week ago he found her body on the floor of her room. It showed many stab wounds. Her baby, four months old, was lying in the bed, under the covers. Hudson said he called Dr. Shippe and the two made a thorough examination of the room. On the floor, Hudson asserted, he found a razor he identified as belonging to Miller.

John R. Pitman, superintendent of the Haskell powder works, in which Miller was employed, testified that on the morning after the discovery of Mrs. Steward's body he found a pair of trousers and a sleuth hat belonging to Miller drying in the cellar on a line. Miller never had used the cellar before, always washing his clothes outside and drying them in the yard.

Jesse Braxton, employed by Mr. Pitman, said that on the morning after the murder he found Miller in the kitchen. He got two pails of hot water and went into the cellar. Later he smiled and said he didn't care to see any more murdered people, as he had seen a man murdered in Charleston and that was enough for him.

The Rev. John W. Lewis testified he had held services on Friday night of last week, and that Miller was not there, although he had been admonished by the pastor to attend regularly. That night the clergyman said he dreamed Mrs. Steward had been murdered, and in his dream he saw Miller wounding her with a razor. Mr. Lewis asserted Miller had a bad reputation, and that women of the congregation frequently had complained of him.

Detective Lewis then told of the bloody imprint on the wall. He said that he had seen the outline of a man's hand traced in red, and after Miller was suspected of the murder and arrested he took the prisoner to the house. He placed Miller's hand against the outline, the detector said, and found the hand fitted the marks exactly. It took the jury only ten minutes to decide Miller should be held for the crime.

FARMS, STOCK, CASH, BROUGHT BY PRAYER

Founder of Bible Students' Community Tells of His Work Through Faith.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPENCER, Mass., Oct. 19.—Farms, buildings, horses, furniture, farming tools live stock and money have been given to the Rev. Essek W. Kanyon of Hillsville, founder of the Bible students' community known as Bethel. The young evangelist started a few years ago penniless and now has thousands of dollars worth of property. He says that it all came to him in direct answer to prayer.

"The divine gospel of St. Matthew," says Kanyon, "asked and it shall be given you." I interpreted it literally, as the whole Bible should be interpreted, for it is all reality."

he said. "I prayed for a farm and it was given to me by Deacon John M. Marble of Sutton. I wanted more buildings in which to lodge my Bible students and in which to locate my Bible school, and these, too, were given me. Once I needed $50. I prayed for it, for I had no money and in less than an hour a woman came to me and gave me a check for that amount. Again I wanted $100 to pay expenses. I was just starting my community of Bethel. I asked God to send the money. It was no more than an hour before another woman sent me an envelope containing exactly $100.

"I would not pray vaguely for help, but I wanted a farm or a horse or a building or a sum of money I would say so in my prayer and all these things would be given me. We take no collections. We do not present our needs to the public nor even to the church. We have lived by faith in God alone."

One of the many rules and regulations of Bethel reads: "No familiarity, love-making or going out together between men and women."

JIM TILLMAN WOULD NOW A PARSON BE

Man Who Killed Editor Gonzales Seeks Admission to the Methodist Episcopal Ministry.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
COLUMBIA, S. C., Oct. 20.—James H. Tillman, ex-lieutenant governor of South Carolina, nephew of Senator Tillman, and who while in office killed N. G. Gonzales in the streets of Columbia, has decided to enter the Methodist ministry, and has written to a prominent minister of this city telling him of his application to the Methodist conference for admission.

The killing of Gonzales and the subsequent trial and acquittal of Tillman created a sensation not only in South Carolina but throughout the country.

"HARD KNOCKS," SAMMY SHOESTRINGS GOES ON TO SAY.

"Soon knock out the shoe with inferior insoles. Without good leather in the insole, the majority of the shoe, there will come early ruin. The stitching, cuts, the uppers, spread, the welt ribs and the shoe quickly loses its shape. Manufacturers know that you look last at the insole and first at fine upper leather when you buy shoes. Result—inside robbery for mere outward effect. Insoles in La France 33 Shoes for Women cost twice as much as ordinary insoles. Baker-Bayles Shoe Co., 6th near Washington, St. Louis."

BUTLER MEN STILL HEAD COMMITTEE

McCarthy Will Be Retained as Democratic Chairman and "Ike" Conran as Secretary.

HAWES TO BE KEPT AT HOME

State Chairman Requested to Cancel His Dates, That He May Work in City.

Delegate John R. McCarthy of the Twenty-third ward, former employee of "Col." Ed Butler and leader of the majority in the House of Delegates, wears a broad smile. The Democratic city central committee, said to be controlled by the supporters of Harry B. Hawes, has just decided to retain him as chairman.

He is to be the official head of the local campaign, although he represents in every respect the Butler faction.

But the retention of McCarthy did not complete the work of the city committee. "Just to show that there isn't no hard feeling," spoke up a Hawes rooster, "I move that we hold on to Ike Conran as secretary."

James Conran is chairman from the Fifth ward. Nobody has ever doubted his allegiance to the Butlers.

Mr. Hawes thought over the matter awhile, and then decided to follow the suggestion.

Mr. Hawes' friends announced that there was no intention to stir up party discussion at this time. It was agreed that Mr. Hawes, instead of delivering speeches in the state, should stay in St. Louis to cooperate with the city committee, so as to promote the success of the municipal ticket.

With the approval of this suggestion the city committee dictated the following letter to Judge W. Evans, chairman of the Democratic state committee:

"We, the undersigned ward committeemen, having seen by the papers that Harry B. Hawes is being named by the state committee to speak at some of the points in the state, hereby respectfully request that Mr. Hawes devote his time from now on exclusively to the St. Louis campaign."

"We are confident that the Democratic party will win, but realize that the success of the party is dependent upon the success of the municipal ticket. We therefore respectfully request him to cancel his speaking dates and to give his time to the Democratic party in this city."

The names of the 24 ward committeemen are appended to this petition.

Hawes Will Be Kept at Home.

Judge Evans says the wishes of the city committee will be respected, and Mr. Hawes will be requested to confine his political labors to St. Louis.

When the Democratic convention met to nominate a local ticket at the West End Coliseum a few weeks ago, the Butler men made no secret of their intention to dictate the personnel of the nominations or knife the ticket. Their chief grievance appeared to be against Joseph W. Folk, nominee for governor, but they were directly against Hawes, who had consented to look after the St. Louis end of the campaign.

When the city committee met to report the Butlerites charged that Hawes and his followers had been guilty of rank unfairness and threatened to withdraw the vote. It looked as though Butler and Hawes had come to a parting of the ways.

Hawes said go himself at the time. Congressman Butler merely smiled and remarked: "When the time comes they will want our votes and we won't have to go after them."

City Committee Has Wide Power.

The city committee is the operating force in every campaign. No better illustration of its prestige or strength can be found than the fact that the board of election commissioners usually recognizes the men recommended for judges and clerks by the city committee. McCarthy and his colleagues named nearly all of the Democratic judges and clerks who will officiate at the November election.

Forty per cent of these election officials are pronounced Butler men.

It has been suggested that, because he knew the Butlers controlled so many judges and clerks of election, Mr. Hawes concluded not to offer objection to McCarthy or Conran.

POLLY CURSED THE FIREMEN

She Had Started the Fire, Also the Alarm, and Wanted to Be Saved.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 20.—When the Allegheny firemen reached the residence of Mrs. Tillie Coles they found much excitement and some fire. A fireman had been sent to the second-story front and was greeted with: "Well, where the—have you been? Didn't you hear me?"

The astounded fireman dragged a parrot from under the sewing machine and cast her out of the window. Polly had been setting matches for breakfast and set the house on fire. The fire was from the stove where she made her speeches to the firemen, which smelled of brimstone, while they tried to save the house.

After the blaze Polly's tongue was found to have been scorched. Her mistress said it was the matches. The firemen think not.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS FROM TODAY IN ST. LOUIS

BY O. B. JOYFUL
(From the Post-Dispatch of Oct. 20, 1929.)

A slight conflagration occurred this morning in one of the archives on the twenty-fifth floor of the City Hall. The company from fire engine house No. 847, by means of their balloon engines succeeded in extinguishing the blaze before great damage was done to the room. The fire was caused by spontaneous combustion on the part of a document which had been stored there since September, 1904, and which was found to be a speech by Cyrus P. Walbridge denouncing boodles.

An automobile train consisting of thirty-two coaches and carrying nearly one thousand passengers ran off of the five-story viaduct at 943d street at 8 o'clock this morning, but, as usual, the parachutes attached to the wheels worked to perfection, and the whole train, hitting the street intact, ran on as though nothing had happened and got into the Grand Intercontinental Automobile Railway Station only one minute late.

The daily census report filed at the City Hall this morning shows that the population of St. Louis today is 3,001,000, an increase of 4407 since yesterday.

The vote in the City Council last night on the proposition to widen Broadway another 100 feet west between Pataleesi street and the northern end of O'Fallen Park was not taken, as expected. Many members contended that the present width of the street, 200 feet, is sufficient. Since the street car tracks were put underground in 1890 there has been plenty of room for all purposes, they assert, and they cannot see either the use or the advisability of changing it. Broadway as it now stands is acknowledged to be the finest street in the world, and there will be a hot fight whenever the question is brought to a vote. The opposition figure that they can beat it by 87 to 23.

Mr. Rolla Wells, a former mayor of St. Louis, is preparing to equip his new twenty-

JUST A MINUTE For POST-DISPATCH Verse and Humor

You'll Have to Hurry.

Well, if you want to see the Fair.
You'll have to hurry.
Remember, it won't long be there.
If you would view those domes and towers,
Whose grandeur almost overpowers,
You'll have to improve the shining hours;
You'll have to hurry.

If you again would "do" the Pike,
You'll have to hurry.
Oh, ne'er again its mate you'll strike!
Get busy! When the alarm clock sounds,
Get out of bed by leaps and bounds.
If you would make a few more rounds,
You'll have to hurry.

If you would view the grand Cascades,
You'll have to hurry.
For everything that's mortal fades;
You'll have to hurry.
Oh, you will have to run and jump!
Yea, verily, you'll have to hump,
Until your heart goes thumpety-thump!
You'll have to hurry!

One Elopers' Finish.

Now that the divorce question has been brought so prominently before the public by reason of the Episcopalian discussion of it, and now that so eminent a lady as Miss Wheeler Wilcox has said that if the church does not recognize divorce, the people will ultimately refuse to recognize the church, although she believes that the tightest restrictions should be placed on divorce in general, and that immediate remarriage should not be allowed, it is pleasing to note this little tale from North Dakota, once the cradle of freedom to the bondslaves of matrimony:

In North Dakota, we are told—and really, it matters not where, since this is a story which reflects credit not on one township alone, nor on one county, but upon the whole state—in North Dakota, one member of a flock of crows eloped with the wife of another crow, and, after having been captured by the other members of the flock, who were shocked and outraged at his conduct, he was taken back to the scene of his offense, tried, sentenced to death and executed.

Now, there may be some who doubt that such a thing as legal punishment among birds exists, yet we have eminent authority for so believing; and, if we accept this story of severe morality among the feathered population of North Dakota, to what extremes in the way of constructing and enforcing laws against divorce and elopement, which leads to divorce, must not the human inhabitants of North Dakota have gone by this time, modestly saying nothing about it, but earnestly endeavoring to wipe out the disgrace of the days when the laxness of their laws in this regard was at once a joke and a national reproach?

The crows did not act without caws, and surely the people have more reasons than they to put a check-rein on divorce.

Why Not?

Life would be more joyful.
Flowers would seem more fragrant.
Could an idle liver
Be fined as a vagrant.

A good many of these little affairs that are pulled off at Clayton and Belleville "to avoid all the fuss and excitement of a church wedding" are also arranged to avoid expense. Many a tale Charlie and the furniture man could tell on this score.

If somebody will only devise a way of eating soft-fried eggs that will be satisfactory at once to the public and the consumer, a little more silver may be added to the lining of life's cloud.

Political oratory, as Robert G. Ingersoll once said of another kind of discussion, usually "results only in a useless agitation of the atmosphere."

The cool autumn nights are doubly welcome. When the windows down the summer piano and the singer with the two stocks voices are more or less shut off.

Spank every boy you know on the slightest provocation. He may grow up to be President, and then you can sit around and brag about it.

Are you still holding that "elegantly furnished front room" at $4 a day?

Reflections of a Bachelor.

A woman saves a great deal of money for a man by not marrying him.
No woman would want to be beautiful if it was the fashion to look like a Hottentot.
The reason farmers have so little enjoyment is they don't raise things to eat but to sell.

A woman can never understand a man's belonging to a secret society and not telling them.

A woman who devotes three hours a day to curling her hair and improving her complexion would just die if she had to spend five minutes every morning on shaving.

Seven Ages of Women.

Says she's 16 when she's 12.
Says she's 18 when she's 14.
Says she's 18 when she's 16.
Says she's 19 when she's 20.
Says she's 21 when she's 46.
Says she's 23 when she's 55.—Yonkers Statesman.

Watches Him.

She: Why is it a woman never looks at the man she's marrying when at the altar?
He: I don't know; but I do know she keeps her eye on him pretty well after the wedding.—Yonkers Statesman.

THE MACINTYRE BLOODY HAND.

A dry old Scot looked up from his lunch of oatmeal porridge.
"Talking about family crests," he said, "did you ever hear the story of the bloody hand in the arms of the clan Macintyre?"
"No," said his companion.
The Scot took a hurried sip from the cup of hot water beside his plate, and began:

"The clan Macintyre is a great clan. I belong to it. Its men are brave and close. They value money more than life. They would rather give you a pound of their flesh than a pound of their gold."
"Back far back, hundreds of years ago, there were three brothers, sons of the chief of the clan Macintyre. This chief died, and the three sons began to contend over a little fertile island south of the great house. Each wanted the island. Each would make no compromise. It was all or nothing with them."

"So, at least, the three agreed to race in boats with the disputed land for the winner's prize. They were to start side by side and row toward the island, and he whose hand first touched the shore should own it."

"They started, and the youngest brother rowed best, the middle brother next best, and the oldest brother worst of all."

"But the oldest brother was the bravest and the closest. Fifty yards from the island, when he saw that by ordinary means he had no chance of winning, he whipped out a knife, cut off his hand, and threw it fair and true upon the shore.

"There," he shouted, "I've won. The island's mine!"
"And it was his. It is in his branch of the family to this day."

"You see now why we have a bloody hand in the Macintyre arms."—Newark Sunday News.

A BOON TO SICK WOMEN

After four years of vain endeavor to regain her health by taking other medicines, Miss Beatrice Wood was made a perfectly well woman by taking Wine of Cardui, the most successful menstrual regulator and woman's tonic known to the science of medicine.

She took Wine of Cardui, and that is what we advise you to do.

Will you follow her example and be a well woman?

We could show you letters from 10,000 other women who praise Wine of Cardui as she praises it.

WINE OF CARDUI

No. 14 Main St., Pensacola, Fla., Nov. 20, 1908.

After four years of vain endeavor to regain my health I became acquainted with the merits of Wine of Cardui, through personal experience, and found it so excellent that I feel it due to you to acknowledge the fact. I had been suffering with irregular, scanty and most painful menstruation, and when the periods occurred I was unable to be up and had to stay in bed for a day or two. Nothing I took helped me until I used Wine of Cardui. It proved to be just what I needed. Within two months the serious pain had disappeared, my headaches were less frequent and not so severe and felt very much encouraged, but had to use your medicine for four months before I was entirely well and regular. I have enjoyed the finest health now for eighteen months. I am very regular and have no more pains and eat and sleep as well as could be desired. I feel your medicine is a boon to sick women, and most heartily do I recommend it to those suffering as I did, feeling sure that they will be cured if they will let other medicines alone and take Wine of Cardui.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 19.—"Political campaigns come and go, the splendorous things from every stump, and the country is saved every four years, but without arousing as much interest among the officers of the navy as the launching of a new warship or a race between boatswains of Jack-jacks," said bluff old Rear Admiral John G. Walker.

Free Wine

We want to send you FREE, costing you absolutely nothing, a trial bottle of "Drake's Palmetto Wine." Drop us a postal and it comes at once. You know that way back in bible times people took wine for the stomach's sake. But the modern grape wine is not good either for stomach, brain or nerves. "Drake's Palmetto Wine" is a very different. It comes from the palm-fruit of our own sunny South. It is a superb appetizer, tonic and nerve-bracer. It cleanses and purifies the blood and thus feeds brain and brawn. It builds up athletes and restores the weak.

Drake's Palmetto Wine

Is also a natural medicine. It is a wonderful specific for constipation, indigestion and all digestive troubles. It positively breaks up catarrhs of nose, throat, stomach or bowels. It regulates the liver, kidneys and bladder. For women it is a true God-send. A tablespoon dose daily cures all those troubles. The wine has a rich, appetizing smack and picks you up instantly.

described, chairman of the Isthmian Canal Commission, retired from active duty seven years ago, after having served 31 years in the navy. In all that time, he has cast a vote but once. He told the story himself.

"It was away back in 1880," said the admiral—careening the famous Walker whiskers—and this is how it happened. You will recall that the Garfield-Hancock campaign was on. Four of us naval officers, on shore duty, made our home at the old Tremont House in Chicago. I had never voted and had no intention of exercising the franchise that year. An acquaintance, a civilian, an enthusiastic in politics, begged us because our names were not on the voting lists. We protested that, as sailors-men, we had no right to vote in Chicago—or anywhere, for that matter.

"I'll fix that," said the Chicagoan, after learning how long we had been quartered in the Windy City. As good as his word, he enrolled us on the voting lists, and then we began to take notice. I found that we were paired. Two of the officers announced their intention to vote for Gen. Hancock. The third declared himself a supporter of Garfield, and I was in the same boat.

"It occurred to me, as I explained to my brother officers, that under the circumstances, our votes, evenly divided, might as well mean as having no effect on the result. I proposed to cast the four ballots in a bunch, regardless of our alleged political proclivities, the tossing of a coin to determine how our suffrages should be exercised."

"All hands agreed. I flipped a dollar. 'Twas to be—head, Garfield; tail, Hancock. Head it was, and the four naval votes were cast for the Garfield electors. Since then I have never voted."

"Why do naval officers take little or no interest in politics? Because, after graduating from Annapolis, and at an age when other young men are in touch with political affairs and forming alliances with one or the other great parties, the naval officer is at sea, probably far from his country, hearing little and caring less about political strife at home, and if he continues in the navy the game of politics possesses no interest for him."

"I remember that on one occasion, when I was bureau chief here, a distinguished secretary of the navy, now deceased, asked me the politics of an officer in the bureau. I promptly told him the naval officers had no partisan politics and expressed the opinion—which I have never changed—that if a naval officer seeks preferment because of his political affiliation, he is very apt to prove a shyster."

LIFE CONTRAST TOO STRONG

Daughter of English Colonel Gives Up Struggle as Wage Earner in New York.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—The awful daily grind of living and laboring in New York, while she remembered the happy, easy-going days she had spent at home in Barbadoes, drove to death. She had been in ill health for weeks.

Miss Watkins came to New York three years ago from Barbadoes in the British West Indies. There she left her mother and two brothers. Her father was a colonel in the British army, who died years ago. She earned a week. Most of this she sent home to support her mother. Recently a brother came to live in New York. He quarreled with her and she ended all with a pistol.

She ended all with a pistol.

RECEPTION FOR COLONIAL DAMES WILL RIVAL ALL FAIR FUNCTIONS

MRS. FREDERICK D. HANGER.

Women Who Trace Their Ancestry Back to Old Colony Days Gather at World's Fair and Will Be Guests of Board of Lady Managers.

The membership of the Missouri society is 25. Guests to the number of about 60 are here from other states. The membership of the Colonial Dames is not large, since in each state there is but one society.

Extensive preparations have been made for the crowning event of the day, which will be the reception of the dames by the board of lady managers Thursday evening between the hours of 9 and 11 o'clock.

Four members of the board—Mrs. Daniel Manning, Mrs. Hanger, Mrs. John M. Holcombe and Mrs. Mary Phelps Montgomery—are members of the dames. Mrs. Manning has been much honored by the organization, having held the highest office in the gift of her state society.

In honor of the dames the decorations at the board of lady managers will be in their colors.

The flowers will be yellow chrysanthemums, the ribbon, cerise blue. Invitations to the number of 60 have been issued. Mrs. Hanger has devoted much time to the planning of the reception, and she has been assisted by the other members of the board. It will rival any of the receptions given at the World's Fair.

The day began with a short program at the Missouri building at 11 o'clock, when Mrs. Claiborne delivered an address. Other members made short talks. At luncheon the dames were guests of the Missouri Society of Colonial Dames in the Missouri building.

In their honor a reception was given at the Illinois building by members of the Illinois Society of Colonial Dames Thursday afternoon.

SLEUTH'S AMBITION LOST HIM HIS JOB

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Larry Summerfield is the ever-present bogle man for New York detectives and they arrest him whenever they see him. He is one of the light-fingered gentry with an international reputation for artistic work of his peculiar kind. An uncontrollable fondness for his hotel lobbies makes him conspicuous.

Manager Muschenheim of the new Hotel Astor was talking with one of the house detectives in the hotel office last night, when a smartly dressed man walked up to the cigar counter and bought a cigar.

"Do you see that fellow?" said the detective to Muschenheim. "Well, take a good look at him. He is the notorious Larry Summerfield and he won't do this place a bit of good."

"If you come over here," said the detective, with his hand on the man's arm. "He is the most notorious confidence man and grifter in New York. All I've got to say to him is that if he ever comes in again I'll ask him to get out. I'll kick him out."

The man's face had been getting redder and redder.

"Why, you ass, I'm no more Summerfield than you are," said he. "You are making a mistake. The fellow who was with me by shoulder and was showing him down the corridor when Muschenheim introduced him, was I. I'll kick him out."

"Will you step into my office, sir?" he asked politely.

The two disappeared. The wise sleuth gaped after them. In five minutes they reappeared. The man with a cigar was smiling. The proprietor of the hotel was white.

He almost yelled at the quaking sleuth: "You get out of here again there will be trouble."

The sleuth bolted. The man with the cigar and the hotel proprietor shook hands solemnly, walked down the corridor together and separated with another shake.

The guest, a prosperous merchant, had accepted the apology in good part.

"I fired the detective in three seconds," said Mr. Muschenheim.

On Monday detectives arrested two men in Broadway whom they said were Summerfield and a pal. There was no charge against them, they just took them in on general principles. In court Summerfield gave the name of William Jones, cool, heavy, residence royal suite, Hotel St. Regis.

The other gave his name as William Smith, truck driver, oriental suit, Waldorf Astoria. They were promptly released by the magistrate.

Prof. Fisher, Lifelong Republican
Gives Reasons for Change.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Oct. 20.—Prof. Willard C. Fisher of Wesleyan University, a lifelong Republican, announces that he will vote for Parker.

In an interview Prof. Fisher, who holds chairs of economic sciences and social sciences, gave as his reasons that under Republican administration conditions of life are too dark for science and social sciences. He said: "He struck hands with some of the dirtiest politicians in his party and of himself a politician of the long familiar type. A comparison of his earlier statements with regard to the tariff with his comments on the present extreme protectionism, in his later life of acquiescence, shows a political shiftness that is discreditable."

JACOB'S PRIZES MAKE HIM WEEP

Spent $78.90 at a "Sight Unseen"
Auction and Has Only a Lot of Junk.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 19.—Fortune's wheel, for Jacob Greenberg, rolled on and on and never once did the little gilt ball drop in the proper pocket when Jacob attended the Wells-Fargo Express Co.'s auction of unclaimed packages Saturday.

From 10 in the morning until late at night the express company sold, "sight unseen," packages of various sizes, shapes and colors, for which there were no owners.

Jacob Greenberg was there when the doors opened, and when they closed at night it took a day to get his purchases.

In his auction debacle Jacob had spent one whole day and $78.90 of his hard-earned money. When he reached home, and, with anticipation, opened the packages, he found that instead of having several thousand dollars' worth of property he had a lot of junk.

For $18.50 this is what Greenberg purchased: One dozen packages of Dr. Thompson's uncooked bread at $2.50; one bottle of shoe polish, $2.50; two trunks filled with old clothes and rags, one of which cost him $7.50 and the other $5.00; one keg of stones, one box of mixed candy, a volume on corporation securities, a hand-saw, a woman's hat and waist, three men's shirts and a number of dishes of different shapes and patterns, with other things of a similar character.

Later he appeared at the office of the company and said that he had been humbugged and would take it up to the courts because he had an idea that some of the bundles he had purchased had been fixed up on purpose for the auction.

PRIEST OBSERVES JUBILEE

Children Present Father Braun With Bouquet of Roses in Honor of 50th Anniversary.

The little children of the German Catholic orphanage and the St. Joseph's parish school celebrated the golden anniversary of the priesthood of Rev. Father Francis Braun of St. Joseph's parish Wednesday afternoon by presenting the aged priest with a large bouquet of red and white roses.

Rev. Father Braun became a parish priest in Cologne, Germany, fifty years ago. Two years later he came to St. Joseph's Church in St. Louis. His parishioners celebrated the jubilee Wednesday with solemn high mass. Rev. Lambert Eiten, R. J. pastor of St. Joseph's was celebrant, and Rev. Fathers Hill and Otten were deacon and sub-deacon respectively.

It was after the mass that the children gathered and presented the large bouquet to Father Braun, who presented them to his bride and said he cherished them far more than presents of gold. Father Braun is 75 years old.

Cruel of Him
"Now, just look at that brute husband I baked," said the egotistical wife. "They are daily little brutes." "Yes," spoke the brute husband. "My wife is a brute."

Fine China, Art Ware and Glass

Easily Our Best October Exposition.

People who love to look at beautiful things are earnestly requested to visit our China Store, where we are showing a magnificent and comprehensive display of Art and Table China, Cut Glass, etc. Asales full of beautiful Statuary, a whole room for Art Ware, dozens of tables for Cut Glass, Dinner Sets by the hundreds—too much Decorated China to count—such a show as an ordinary china store would hardly dare to dream of. We are proud of our display for the following reasons: Newness of Goods—Exclusiveness of Designs—Variety—Lowness of Price—Completeness.

Dinner Sets	Marble Statuary	Cut Glass
Over 175 different designs to choose from. Just as an example of the prices, let us say that you can get for $25 a Theodore Haviland set of 100 pieces, with flower decorations and gold stippled handles—a usual $35 set. Four designs to choose from—$25.00.	Italian marble busts, some with lace hats, others with the hair dressed in the different styles; all handsomely carved; mostly one of a kind. Prices start at $5, then $7.50, $11.50, $15.00, $20.00 and up to $300.00.	Discriminating buyers know that the best values in Cut Glass are offered here. Olive Dishes, $1.50, Celery Trays, $2.00, Large Bowls, $3.50 and other pieces at proportionate low prices.

Rookwood Pottery.	Gold Decorated Glassware.
An American ware with a world-wide reputation—most beautiful in its artistic decorations and soft underglaze effects. Each piece bears the artist's signature. Prices start at $1.00 for an odd little Trinket Tray, and range from that amount up to Vases and Urns at $50.00.	An immense variety of designs—marvelous blendings of color. The pieces are exquisitely etched and cut and inlaid with pure gold—some decorated with flowers and foliage in natural colors. Individual Almond or Bonbon Dishes, 75c each; Bowls, $5.00; Bonbon Dishes, footed, 7 inches high, price only $5.75.

Decisions in Competitive Dinner Table Exhibit

Will be announced at our China Store tomorrow. Thousands of pleased visitors have voted for the table they thought entitled to first honors, and these votes will be counted tonight and decisions made known to tomorrow's visitors. The display will be continued Friday, and we extend a cordial invitation to everyone to call and see it.

LARGEST COLLEGE DAILY IN AMERICA

The Cornell Sun Prints Eight Pages of News From All Parts of the World.

THE STUDENTS DO THE WORK

Enterprise Often Enables Them to "Scoop" Their Bigger City Contemporaries.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 20.—The Cornell Daily Sun, which began the twenty-fifth year of its publication with the present college year, is now the largest college daily in America, and so far as known, in all the world.

The Cornell Sun during the first twenty-four years of its existence, was a four-page sheet like all the rest of the college papers. This year it expanded to eight pages and twelve pages on special occasions, and at the same time took on many more new features. Besides covering college news more thoroughly than ever before because of its increased size, the Sun has each morning a page of telegraphic news covering the whole world. Its service is from the New York World and a direct wire runs from New York to the Sun's office in Ithaca. Because it goes to press later than the city dailies the Cornell Sun is often able to scoop its bigger contemporaries on matters of late news.

Its news enterprise has increased the circulation of the Cornell Sun almost three fold. From little over one thousand its daily issue has grown to three thousand. The university professors now use the daily college paper to make announcements to their classes. The Sun has a special representative in each one of the eight or ten leading universities of the country, and from these it receives stories of interest to Cornell students. The coaches of the various university athletic teams are also writers for the Sun. Football games and other events are also illustrated, and in this department the Cornell Sun has shown the enterprise of a metropolitan daily, producing pictures of plays in a mid-week football contest on the following morning.

All this means that the Cornell Daily Sun is a bigger publication than many a daily paper in a city of 20,000 or 30,000 population, yet it is run entirely by students, who at the same time keep up their university work. This is accomplished by a highly organized division of labor.

A place on the board of editors and managers is one of the greatest honors in the university, as high as 30 underclassmen starting out in the race for a single position. The board, as thus composed, elects from its own number an editor-in-chief. The business manager, as a rule, is allowed to choose his own successor, subject to the ratification of the board. The competition for the management is even keener than that for the editorial positions. There is always a money surplus at the end of the year, which is divided up among the members of the staff, a dividend as it is called, which materially helps to put through college many a hard-working student.

Of this year's board of editors H. N. Morse of Northport, N. Y., is editor-in-chief, and E. H. Kelley of Dayton, O., is business manager.

Snapshot of Helen Keller, Her Tutor, Miss Sullivan, and Secretary Stevens Leaving the Administration Building

GAVE UP LIFE TO SAVE GIRL

James L. Curley Pushed Sweetheart to Safety and Then Fell Beneath Engine.

McKEESPORT, Pa., Oct. 20.—James L. Curley, aged 21, a draftsman at the East Pittsburg works of the Westinghouse Electric Co. gave his life to save his sweetheart.

Curley and a companion named Myers were escorting Misses Walters and Keller to their homes and while crossing the Baltimore & Ohio tracks a switch engine suddenly bore down upon them. Curley gave the alarm in time for Myers and Miss Keller to reach safety, but he and Miss Walters were a step or two behind the first couple and Curley seized Miss Walters and threw her bodily clear of the track.

Before he could recover his balance the engine was upon him.

TOO READY TO BE PUNISHED

Grandjury Will Examine Man Who Said He Was Defendant Who Forfeited a Bond.

Because he pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor of which he was not guilty, a man giving the name of John Fleitz is held at the Four Courts to await grandjury action. Sept. 26 last Charles Stretch was arrested on a charge of shooting craps. Stretch was missing when his case was called for trial Sept. 28, and his bond, which had been furnished by Sam Gross, proprietor of a Broadway saloon, was ordered forfeited.

Wednesday a man appeared in the City Hall police court, told Judge Tracy his name was Charles Stretch, and said he would like to enter a plea of guilty to Stretch's charge. He also mentioned that he would like to have Stretch's bond set aside, and said he would like to pay his fine at once.

"How can you prove you are Stretch?" said Judge Tracy. The man hesitated. Then Judge Tracy ordered him to write his name. He signed "Charles Stretch."

Judge Tracy then ordered Stretch's bond which he signed Sept. 26 brought, and compared the signature on it with that of the man who wished to plead guilty.

The two signatures were not alike. When confronted by the comparison, the man admitted that he was not Charles Stretch, but that he was John Fleitz and that he lived at 107 Pine street. Judge Tracy ordered him held for the grandjury.

FAREWELL INTERRUPTED.

Young Man Charged With Stealing $80 From Roommate's Trunk Faints at Detectives' Command.

While Louis Smith was saying good-by to two young women who had gone to Union Station Wednesday night to see him off to Springfield, Ill., where he said he was going into business, two detectives approached him and told him he was arrested.

Smith was standing on the rear platform of the train that he was to take. As the detectives spoke he turned pale, staggered back and fell forward into the detectives' arms in a faint.

The young women tried to assist him and assured the detectives that there must be a mistake. But as soon as Smith was revived he went with the detectives to the Four Courts.

IN SOCIETY

Miss Mayme Knowlton Sawyer and Charles Johnson Niehaus will be married at Lindell Avenue Methodist Church at 7:30 o'clock Saturday evening, Nov. 5. The invitations to the church will include all the friends and relatives of the bride and bridegroom.

After a separation of 11 years, William P. Bolin of 723 Water street, and James W. Bowen of Rockwood, Mo., met in St. Louis, and although they sell their names differently, they are certain there is no mistake about their being brothers. They separated after the death of their mother. At that time William Bolin was a baby. At different times since then each has heard of the other, but neither knew where the other was.

There is another brother, Sylvanus. He served for three years in the regular army and was stationed at Fort Sully, S. D., at the same time James Bowen was in the army and stationed at the same fort. Although they probably met hundreds of times, neither knew that the other was his brother. It was not until several years afterwards that James discovered the fact.

Cards have been received by St. Louis friends of the wedding of Miss Virginia May Mathews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lawson Mathews of Louisville, Ky., and Dr. John Albert James of St. Louis. The wedding will take place at the residence of the bride's parents, 1313 Fourth avenue, Nov. 2. Dr. James and his bride will be at home at the Buckingham Club Fridays in January.

After Nov. 1 Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reardon, who have recently sold their home, will be at home at the Buckingham Club. Mr. and Mrs. Christian Kenney will also have apartments at the Buckingham.

The marriage of Miss Grace Swan of Kirkwood and Cecil Graham of Florida will take place in November.

Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander Smith of Farnell avenue have as their guest Miss Jane Miller of Lincoln, Neb.

Miss Louise Groover of Ohio is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Kalme of 311 Delmar avenue.

Mrs. Corcoran of Chicago was guest of honor at a pretty card party given by Mrs. Chris Garvey, whose guest she is, at her home, 1000 McPherson avenue, Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Koller won first prize, a cut glass berry bowl. Mrs. Bittman, second prize, a silver vase. Mrs. Corcoran was given the guest prize, a hand-painted vase. The winners were simply decorated with palms and cut flowers. Some of the guests were: Mesdames Scannel, George Hergold, Wm. Kavanagh, Gacy, Wood, Atwood, Kreis, Wagner, Smith, Conover, Wegman, Kiefer, Hummer.

Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Holbrook of 423 West Erie place have returned home after a visit to Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Killebrew of Roseview, Tenn., and Mrs. George Killebrew and baby of Mount Pleasant, Tenn., Col. Buckner Killebrew, secretary of agriculture for Tennessee, Mrs. Jennie Williams of Barbours, N. C., Miss Barbara Ross of Roseview, Tenn., Mrs. Gilbert C. Goodlet, were entertained at dinner Wednesday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. Goodlet at their home in Cabano.

HEAVY FINE FOR LIGHT COAL

Man Charged With Short Weight Deliveries Fails to Appear and Gets Limit.

James Shackelford, charged with delivering short-weight coal, was fined $50 by default Thursday morning by Judge Tracy in the City Hall police court. Shackelford, upon whom personal service was secured, failed to appear when his case was called.

Inspector L. Johnson and Det. J. V. Gallagher informed the judge that the case had been pending since May 25, when Shackelford was arrested. He was arrested by a South Fourth street constable and set of fraudulent tickets in his possession. One series of tickets were to be displayed only when questioned by inspectors. These were known as "trick-tickets."

Through an error the case was mislaid and before new information could be filed Shackelford left the city. He remained away until last week, when he returned and was arrested.

THEY MEET AFTER 51 YEARS

Brothers Who Were Separated for Over Half Century Are Re-united in St. Louis.

After a separation of 51 years, William P. Bolin of 723 Water street, and James W. Bowen of Rockwood, Mo., met in St. Louis, and although they sell their names differently, they are certain there is no mistake about their being brothers. ### BECOMING A MOTHER

Is an ordeal which all women approach with indescribable fear, for nothing compares with the pain and horror of child-birth. The thought of the suffering and danger in store for her, robs the expectant mother of all pleasant anticipations of the coming event, and casts over her a shadow of gloom which cannot be shaken off. Thousands of women have found that the use of Mother's Friend during pregnancy robs confinement of all pain and danger, and insures safety to life of mother and child. This scientific liniment is a god-send to all women at the time of their most critical trial. Not only does Mother's Friend carry women safely through the perils of child-birth, but its use gently prepares the system for the coming event, prevents "morning sickness," and other discomforts of this period. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Book containing valuable information free.

CROWDS UNABLE TO FIND HELEN KELLER

Her Wish to Spend Last Day at World's Fair Without Attracting Notice, Gratified.

LIKES AGRICULTURAL EXHIBIT

Description of Objects Displayed Interests Her Keenly—Devotes Several Hours to Horticultural Building.

Every precaution was taken Thursday to protect Miss Helen Keller from annoyance by curious crowds and to enable her to spend her last day at the World's Fair quietly.

No satisfaction was given at the entrances or at the Education building to the many who asked how she was going to spend the day, and Jefferson Guards were under instructions not to tell anything about her movements during the day.

While she has been at the World's Fair Miss Keller has been thronged by the curious almost as badly as Miss Roosevelt was during her visit. Whenever it was announced that she would appear great crowds, composed mostly of women, have gathered and crowded about her so closely as to necessitate the Jefferson Guards forcing them back.

Miss Keller's patience has stood the strain admirably, but everything possible was done Thursday to gratify her wish for one day at the World's Fair free from the attentions of the curious.

It was 11:15 o'clock when Miss Keller and Miss Anne Sullivan, her teacher, arrived at the Lindell entrance. They were not attended and were unnoticed, except by a few, as they entered the grounds. They boarded an intramural car and went at once to the Agricultural building. It was their intention to spend the greater part of the day in that and the Horticultural building.

The protection of the buildings was grateful to them. Outside, the grounds were wind-swept and clouds of dust made moving about very unpleasant.

In the Agriculture building there were very many things which interested Miss Keller, and things which she could touch and understand and other things which Miss Sullivan described to her, which interested her greatly, and she enjoyed "feeling" things just like anybody else, without attracting attention to herself.

WOMAN PREACHER RAPS BISHOP

Rt. Rev. Henry C. Potter Censured by Missouri W. C. T. U. for Indorsing Subway Tavern.

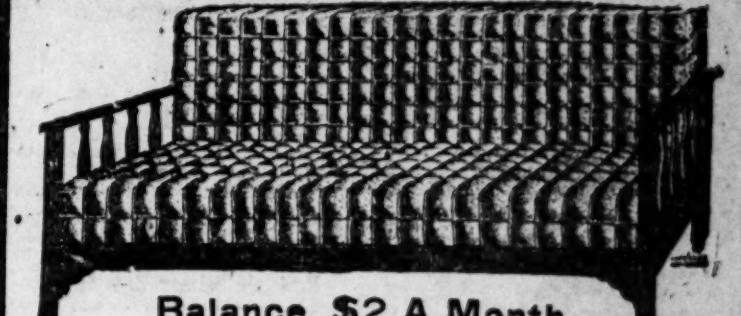

Much business is scheduled for today's sessions of the Missouri Women's Christian Temperance Union at its twenty-second annual convention, being held at the Christian Endeavor Hotel. State officers and delegates to the national convention are to be elected at this afternoon's session.

Bishop Henry C. Potter was censured by the members of the W. C. T. U. at Wednesday's meetings for his attitude in indorsing the Subway Tavern in New York. One of the strongest addresses made on the subject was by Rev. Bertha J. Brown, who took for her text, "Know ye not hat ye are in the temple of God and the spirit of God dwelleth in you?"

In her address she contended that it is required that workingmen have some place in which to spend their time. It would be much better to provide a place where they could take their wives and children. Mrs. E. B. Ingalls delivered the address responses being made by Mrs. Nellie G. Burger, Miss Shaner, Mrs. Mary L. Woods and Miss Brown.

W. U. RAN OVER DRURY COLLEGE

Boynton's Greatly Improved Eleven
Had Little Trouble With Team
From Springfield.

DRURY'S DEFENSE WAS POOR

College Men Gained of Washington, but Weakened Under Myrtle and Maroon Attack.

Washington 36, Drury 0.

It was a vastly improved team that Washington put in the field Wednesday against Drury and they played a vastly improved game. Before one of the largest crowds that has witnessed a football game at the World's Fair stadium, the local team ran up 36 points while the Springfield squad was not able to tally.

Washington played with more snap and cohesiveness than it has yet shown, and having a few critical moments in the early part of the game, when Drury got the jump on Boynton's men, the advantage was with Washington all the way.

At certain periods the Drury line men far outshone the myrtle and maroon on defensive work. They charged low and started quickly opening holes through which the backs ran for telling gains. The left side of Washington line was weak in this respect, but after Luckey and Tatra closed up and played together there was no fault to find with the work of the entire team.

Smith for the local team played one of his old-time star games, running and dodging for long gains, and better still, helping the man with the ball on all occasions. Baker also shone brilliantly on offensive work, while Lewis displayed the best individual work of the game. His work in carrying the ball was splendid. Time and again he knocked off tacklers with the straight arm and it generally required several attempts to bring him down. His defensive play was almost perfect.

Quarterback Stuttle also showed an improvement on his recent games. His skill of running back with the ball was in evidence the only time he carried it, but his all-around work was good. He used good judgment in his attack when ground was needed and also was a second to none in dragging or pushing the man with the ball.

In the line Washington presented considerable more weight than it has in any previous game, and the work of the line men was greatly responsible for Washington's victory. Weber, who was in at left tackle in place of Schaumburg, who played end, was one of the chief ground gainers of the team. This player is fast regarding the yard which he gained on a repetition of runs, and he is bound to prove an important factor in Washington's future games. Hudson, the new guard, is rapidly wearing off the greenness that showed in his last game, his work was up to par both on offensive and defensive to good advantage.

The work of Halfback Lowe and Capt. Knight at quarter showed the best for Drury. Lowe was a great runner, a gain through tackles and some of Knight's end runs were brilliant. Kaufman at end played a good defensive game and advanced the ball by end runs on several occasions. The defense of Drury was fair, even though on two occasions when Washington was knocking at the door, the two local men were rebuffed and on only gained their points when the water was called back and sent crashing through the door with a force that would have denied any photo.

Immediately after the opening of the game Drury secured the ball and by a splendid back and end run, carried the ball yards to Washington's 25-yard line. The ball was fumbled here and out of the scrimmage came Smith, bursting in and making a bee-line for the Drury goal and making a bee-line for the Drury goal and making a bee-line for the Drury goal.

Julius Caesar Is Conquered

"A certain friend of mine," remarked Irving Bacheller, the novelist, the other day, "was entertaining some bachelor friends at his home one evening. The host's wife did not appear at the party, which was entirely a stag affair. After the highballs had been around an hour or so the topic of matrimony fell under discussion. Many views were expressed. The host, when his turn came, pounded his fist on the table and said: 'Boys, when you get married, follow my example and be a Julius Caesar in your own home! When then came a voice from amidst: 'Julius Caesar, come here, come here!'"

Fissure No Money Till Cured

THE ORIGIN, STAGES, DEATH DEALING COURSE AND CERTAIN CURE FOR BLOOD POISON

My Serum Specific Treatment for Blood Poison is the Only Remedy known to absolutely cure the disease, removing every trace of malarial taint and rebuilding the entire system from the damaging effects of Mercury and Potash, leaving the patient with new flesh, new blood, new bone and in perfect health.

My method of curing Blood Poison is by a specific Serum that I introduce into the blood by subcutaneous injection (hypodermic) and internally, and by its antagonism to the virus of blood poison the taint is ejected from the body as well as the counteraction of the mercury and potash poisoning.

My serum treatment reorganizes the corpuscles of the blood, disorganizes, neutralizes and expels all poisons with fresh, pure blood, which supplies the tissues that rebuild the entire human organism, so that the whole body is restored to its normal size, strength and soundness. I can offer no better evidence of the reliability of my claim for Specific Serum than the many I have cured some of the most obstinate cases of blood-poison, scrofula, loss of eyesight, hair and eyebrows, or some fatal organ, locomotor ataxia, and apparently incurable diseases, and after completing my course of treatment they are entirely cured, robust and healthy, without a symptom ever recurring.

NO CURE, NO PAY—Absolutely no charge unless satisfaction is given. Every patient is given a written guarantee to refund every dollar paid for services in a specified length of time if they do not receive absolute satisfaction, and my well-known financial standing is sufficient evidence to assure that I am entirely responsible for any contract that is not fulfilled.

Consultation free, by letter or in person, and by correspondence. Successful treatment by mail. Terms are always made to suit the convenience of anyone applying for treatment and very reasonable charges. Do not treat elsewhere until you have investigated my methods and terms. Office hours during week, 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.; Sundays, 9 to 1.

WHAT A POST-DISPATCH CARTOONIST SAW ON THE DOWN-TOWN ALLEYS

EDGREN WATCHES TIGERS PRACTICE

He Is Impressed With the Fierce Aggressiveness of Orange and Black Squad in Scrimmage.

By ROBERT EDGREN.

Special to the Dispatch.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 20.—"Kill 'em! Kill 'em!"

"Tear 'em up there! Smash 'em, boys!"

"That's the way to do it! Rip their hearts out!"

"I rounded the last bleacher and caught a view of it to make a man's heart beat faster."

In the middle of Princeton Field was a swirling cloud of brown bodies and black and yellow striped flags. The swirl stopped and the orange and black flags were hoisted high.

"From the bleachers I saw a work of the season, for on the previous day the Tigers had made a poor showing against Lafayette, and the Tiger coaches were fired with wrath and disgust."

The Princeton line plunged and tore at each other. Play followed play as fast as signals could be given and men could jump back into their places. Now and then there was a moment's delay, as some battered player was carried or dragged to a cartilage that was to take him to the college hospital, and the coaches were shouting and urging them on, and there was no time to waste over such slight things as twisted shoulders and broken ribs.

"The varsity was on the scrub's 5-yard line. Fear me up there, you dogs!"

A little later, when the varsity was on the 10-yard line, a sudden crash of padded bodies, a grinding swirl, and catapulting over it all a compact figure that carried the ball across for a touchdown.

When the tumbled heap of warriors scrambled up to its feet one was left motionless on the ground. He was dragged up and dropped on the torn turf. The others started back toward the 10-yard line, but with a glance around. One of the coaches, noting that the injured man had not moved, called out to some of the subs lined up on the side lines. "Here, you, come and take this man away."

As he was carried by a notice that his face was twisted with pain, but he never whimpered. An hour later, after the team had retired to the dressing quarters, I saw the same young fellow brought out again. Three men were carrying him to a cartilage that was to take him to the college hospital, and he was protesting that he wanted to go back to the field.

"Hello, Hampton, how do you feel?" Coach Edwards called out to him.

"A little done up," was the reply, "but I'll be out for the next practice."

"Sure," said Edwards cheerfully, "you're all right."

The coach turned to me and said in a lower tone: "Lawrence, the chances that he'll be out tomorrow, I guess lie's out of it for a season—broken ribs and a twisted ankle."

The dressing room after the day's work on the gridiron looked like a branch hospital after a riot. Cuts and bruises were everywhere.

Short the big guard, opened a door beside me and shouted out: "King, give me that powder, will you?"

He showed me a small tin of powder that he had dragged over a field of sandpaper. King responded by the antiseptic and then he was patched up temporarily. King himself had a big plaster over his forehead, and some of the same powder decorated the scraped places.

Standard, the giant tackle, had a pair of black eyes. The air of the quarters was heavy with a smell of iodine and disinfectant. Trainer Robinson was bustling about for bandages to fix up a broken ankle.

It is the way they play at Princeton. If President Roosevelt instead of ex-President Cleveland lived in the college town he would never complain of any lack of strenuous living.

The Tigers fight all the way through the

LIPTON TO TRY FOR CUP AGAIN

If Yacht Club Will Change Rule He Will Make Another Effort to Lift Trophy.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20.—Everybody in New York that owns a yacht is turning up for "his" Jolly Good Fellow," for Sir Thomas Lipton is to reach that port Oct. 1 of next year. The sixth annual meeting of the New York Yacht Club will take place Thursday, Oct. 15, and if the challenge is received in time it can be taken up then. However, it is likely that a special session would be held, if necessary, to discuss a question so important. It is not at all unlikely that the British sportsmen will ask for a race under the new rule of measurement of the New York Yacht Club, and in the event of the New York Yacht Club's declining to accept challenge under the present rule the committee will agree to sail another race under old rule. Sir Thomas has not matured all his plans just yet, but yachtsmen expect to hear from him very soon.

THREAT TO "KILL IRISH" COSTLY

Man Who Started Out With Expression of Hostility Ends in Meek Explanation.

It cost Martin Stiffin of 1727 Bacon street a $5 fine in the Dayton street police court to express a determination to "kill all the Irish."

Stiffin made the declaration on the night of Sept. 27, after he and Barney Riley of 1820 Bacon street had quarreled, and when Stiffin was going to Riley's house to find him and renew the argument.

Between the two houses is the home of H. P. Kraulman, and Stiffin found it convenient to cross the Kraulman lawn in seeking Riley. Mrs. Kraulman was seated on the lawn. She is a pretty little woman herself, with beautiful black hair and blue eyes that sparkle.

"I'm going to kill all the Irish," said Stiffin. Mrs. Kraulman continued his search for Riley.

When Riley was found he had Stiffin arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace. Then Stiffin's declaration to Mrs. Kraulman was learned, and a second warrant for disturbing the peace was asked for. The case was continued until Thursday, when they came up in the Dayton street police court.

Riley was not present, but Mrs. Kraulman was there. She did not want to prosecute, but Judge Priest insisted that she do so. When she told of Stiffin's threat, Judge Priest asked her if she was Irish. She blushed prettily and promptly replied that she was.

Stiffin said he had taken a friend to see St. Louis earlier in the day and they had seen three bears. King, who was seated on the lawn, said that he had seen three bears. The other case against him was continued until Riley could be brought into court.

WOLVERINES MAY PLAY GOPHERS

Rumored That Differences Have Been Settled and They Will Meet at Stadium Thanksgiving Day.

It is rumored at the headquarters of the department of physical culture at the World's Fair that there will be a Thanksgiving day game between Michigan and Minnesota at the Stadium. Both teams, according to rumor, have agreed to play, and it remains only for the monetary considerations to be satisfactorily settled before the matter will be definitely arranged. The recent announcement of Columbia cancelling its turkey day game with Michigan, suggested to the World's Fair people the possibility of bringing the two big western teams here. They have no regular scheduled game for this year, and if they do not meet the championship will again be in dispute. Minnesota is the only team that has given Michigan's marvelous machine a close game since Coach Voss arrived in Ann Arbor four years ago. The teams played one of the greatest contests last year ever known in the history of the game. The final score was 6-6, and the participants of both sides have always claimed an advantage for their team. Counter-charges were made at the close of the season respecting the conduct of the game, and the result was that the managers did not arrange a game for this year. If the physical culture department has succeeded in patching up the differences and obtained the consent of the teams to play in St. Louis, local football followers will see the greatest contest ever played in this vicinity.

Architect Given Judgment.

A jury in United States Circuit Court at St. Louis returned a verdict Thursday morning in the suit of Fred C. Bonsack against the Western Military academy. Bonsack is a St. Louis architect. In his petition he alleged that he drew plans for a barracks, an academy building and an administration building for the school at Upper Alton, Ill., and that a balance of $29.58 was due him.

The jury gave him judgment for $29.58.

POST-DISPATCH POLITICAL X-RAY PORTRAITS

No. 3—Albert O. Allen.

TOWNS N TERROR FROM WILD BEASTS

Bears and Wolves Running at Large. Women and Children Fear for Their Lives.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LEXINGTON, Mass., Oct. 20.—This entire town is in an uproar and mothers are keeping their children indoors, fearing that the three timber wolves and two bears which are still at large, after escaping from the park manager, will kill some of them. Citizens are armed and searching the woods for the wild beasts which escaped from a wholesale zoo delivery, but so far their effort to capture the most dangerous of these have been fruitless.

The animals' escape was brought about by either a practical joker with even less idea of the humorous than is generally possessed by that species of nuisance or by someone possessed of a spirit of mischief. Bears, buffaloes, foxes, raccoons and wildcats fled their cages and with one accord sped down the streets toward the woods.

Not an animal was left in the park when the keeper got there except four deer. The door of their cage was open and they could have escaped easily, but instead of doing so they were found cowering in a corner—evidently greatly frightened by the wolves and bears prowling around before making off.

A farmer and his wife who went to a meadow with milk pails were amazed at seeing that their herd of four cows had increased to six. When they got closer and saw that two were buffaloes they took it on the run—the woman for the house and the man for the police station.

When he was out of breath he could explain what was wrong. The buffaloes proved to be tractable and were easily driven back to their inclosure.

The village dogs at first were unwilling to take the tracks of the tiger, but when a couple of old boys and a young man took them to the park and saw the tiger, they were all in a hurry to get out of the park.

Almost all the animals had been captured except the three gray wolves and a bear. A dozen parties of armed men and boys were searching for them. The hunters had tried the best of the town, but the wolves but followed only a short distance and whined in fear, while the town dogs fled home.

There will be no afternoon game today in the championship pool tournament being played at the Broadway, but the match tonight should prove to be one of the most interesting of the week. Kid Hueston, the brilliant but erratic local player, and Charles Weston, the cowboy champion, will meet, and as both are rapid, sensational players the match will be worth seeing.

WANT LEGSLATION AGAINST BEARS

Since State Bounty Was Withdrawn They Have Increased in Number and Boldness.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BANGOR, Me., Oct. 20.—While the human population of Maine has remained nearly stationary for 40 years, the bears are increasing wonderfully, and if the present rate of progression be maintained it will not be many years before the bears will outnumber the people. When the legislature in a fit of economy repealed the bounty of $5 a head on bears the bears multiplied like leaves upon the trees, and in the thinly settled regions they are now having things all their own way.

When bears get so particular about their feed that they will not come around among a flock of sheep and pick out only the fattest ones, and when they break into the pantries of farm houses and steal strawberry preserves, the residents of rural Maine think it is about time to declare war and call for another bounty to help pay for the powder.

Reports from down east of Bangor, in the hilly regions of Hancock county, tell of bold doings by brute and the farmers have quit plowing and gone on the warpath with guns and axes. The results of the war have been already apparent, as the reports of many deaths, with thick, glossy skins, are displayed every day, and bear-skins are always in demand.

County has lost a lot of sheep this fall, and, owing to a great hunt, he has lost a lot of his stock. The morning of the third day he came up with the bear in a sheep pasture, and he was in a hurry to get away, for he was afraid of the bear.

He picked up the bear, and he was in a hurry to get away, for he was afraid of the bear. He picked up the bear, and he was in a hurry to get away, for he was afraid of the bear.

DEATH SHADOW ON GOLDEN TREASURE

Erdman Finds Fortune, but Only to Discover That He Could Not Live Longer.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LOGANSPORT, Ind., Oct. 17.—With the fortune, for which he had spent the best years of his life searching finally exposed before him, Frederick Erdman, 32 years old, felt death approaching and left the gold fields of Cape Nome in a race for home, hoping to see his relatives again before the end.

He finished his race here and collapsed in the Panhandle hotel after leaving the train. Realizing that he was coming, but did not know on what train, so there was no way to meet him. Hours later he was found in the Panhandle hotel, and he was taken to the house of Rudolph Berndt, a doctor, for the arrival of a physician.

Erdman went to Alaska thirty years ago. Once he was successful. He loaded his gold dust on a dog sled and started back along the trail. Crossing treacherous ice he was led broke through, the gold and dogs were lost, and Erdman, again a poor man, thought himself lucky to escape alive.

Long years were spent in prospecting. Then came the news to friends at home that he had struck wonderful "pay dirt" and was working his claim. While he believed the claim to be true, he was abandoned the claim to try to reach home and kindred before the end.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 20.—The vice-president of a great system of railroads is the record made by W. C. Brown, who was a town boy and who today is the second vice-president of the great Vanderbilt railroad line in the East.

Forty years ago Mr. Brown was driving an ox-cart in the town of Waterbury, Conn. He was a boy of 12 years old, and he was a town boy and who today is the second vice-president of the great Vanderbilt railroad line in the East.

RAILROAD WIPES OUT TWO VILLAGES

Port Perry and Demmler, Pa., Will Soon Be Only Memories, as Ground Is Needed.

ONE WAS ONCE PROSPEROUS

Baltimore and Ohio Needed Ground for Four-Track Line and Bought Houses.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 20.—Railroads in and about Pittsburgh in the last few years have done wonders in changing the landscape. Every improvement in fixing a grade for a railway or a street in and about Pittsburgh is made against the protest of nature. To obtain a grade means cutting through solid rock and the great hills that surround the city and on which the city is built near tremendous cuts and plenty of them.

The Wash had its trials in getting to the steel center, but the undertakings of the Wash have been no greater than those of the Baltimore and Ohio, which has carved its way through the rocks, along the side of the mountains, from where it leaves the Potomac lowlands, all the way to its station in Pittsburgh. The work has covered many years, for it was of such a nature that it had to be done slowly. It was expensive and required years of prosperous railroad time to build up the capital necessary to carry on the undertaking.

In the last year the Baltimore and Ohio has carried on a work between Highland station, where the Second avenue station bridge spans the Monongahela river, and McKeesport that is not exceeded anywhere on its line.

Two Towns
Are Wiped Out.

In the scheme of improvement now nearing completion two well known towns in the Monongahela valley have been obliterated. They are Port Perry, with all its old historical associations, and Demmler, seat of the first iron plate mill in the United States. Three or four years ago they were populous towns. Demmler today consists of half a dozen houses which are occupied by tenants who are living under notice to move whenever the railroad company needs the ground they occupy. Port Perry has passed more slowly. There are still a couple of dozen houses in the town which are occupied. These tenants are under notice to quit on short notice.

Port Perry was an important little place a few years ago. It is a much older town than its neighbor, Braddock. Just across the Turtle Creek bottom, before the Monongahela navigation Co. slackwatered the Monongahela river there was a ford at this point.

When the lock and dams were built in the Monongahela Port Perry was the head of navigation for a time. When the dam was built the head moved up to McKeesport. Of course, this applied only in seasons of low water. A little town grew up about the locks at Port Perry, although there had been houses there for many years before the locks and dams were dreamed of. A sawmill gave employment to a few men, and a boat yard, with caulkers, raised the echoes along the river valley.

It was a pretty little place, and felt like a great city one time, when men came along and laid a railroad track through the center of the town. Like many another small hamlet, Port Perry thought it was bound to become a place of importance.

Once a Busy Place.
Port Perry was a half dozen years ago a couple of hundred houses, stores, churches, a school building, Odd Fellows hall and other buildings. It was a flourishing place and a pretty little town, where everybody had a garden and the front yards were covered with flowers and the back yards with cabbage and all sorts of vegetables.

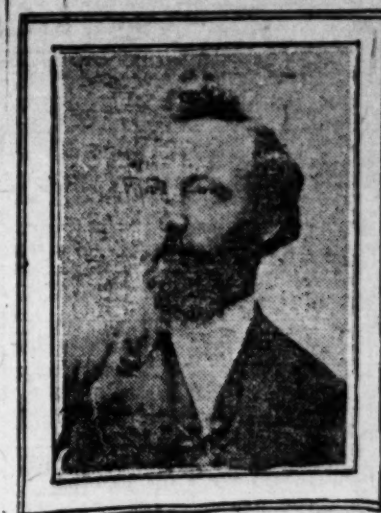

Then the Lake Erie, which had built its tracks through the town along the river, came along and the few residents of the town were obliged to leave their homes and those of the Baltimore and Ohio. That included Odd Fellows hall. The band of the railroad laborer soon laid the building low and two dozen houses passed away in a month or two. The space the occupied is now covered by Lake Erie tracks.

The Baltimore and Ohio found a year or two ago it would have to put four tracks on a railroad section, and it needed room. It bought the rest of Port Perry. Nearly all the houses have been emptied of their occupants and the few residents of the town are using the empty houses for firewood. Within a few months or less the steam shovel will come along. It is working only two miles above now, and all the houses that are left will have to be moved. So then Port Perry will be dropped entirely from the map.

ST. LOUIS POOR LOSE FRIEND

Dr. Frederick Schade, Known as "the Broadway Philanthropist," Succumbed to Heart Failure.

DR. FREDERICK SCHADE

Dr. Frederick Schade, better known as the "South Broadway philanthropist," is dead at his home, 221 Keokuk street. Death, which was due to heart disease, occurred some time Tuesday night.

Dr. Schade was 70 years old and was one of the best-known German citizens in St. Louis. At one time wealthy, he devoted the greater part of his fortune to charity during his later years.

He set apart Saturday afternoon for the poor. On that day it was not uncommon to see lines of persons in front of his office at 221 South Broadway, waiting to tell their tales of distress to the old doctor. During the other days of the week his office was headquarters for children of the neighborhood.

Two daughters and a foster son survive him. The daughters are Mrs. Flora Schwan of Cleveland and Mrs. Anna Haas of Pittsburgh.

Eaten to Be Disturbed
"What is the latest boy I ever met?"
"Well, I told him he might wake up some day and find himself famous."
"No, he said he hoped he wouldn't wake up before the alarm clock went off."

is now lodged in jail.

He was long hair, matted with burrs and weeds that looked as though it had never seen a comb or a brush, and so unkempt was his personal appearance that women and children were struck with fear when he approached the doors of the farmhouses when the men were at work in the fields.

The man can give no intelligent account of himself, and his pockets are stuffed full raw cracked corn, which he is continually eating.

PROMINENT FINANCIER DIES.

Funeral of Late Williamson Bacon Will Be Held Today.

After a short funeral service at his late residence, 321 Locust street, at 5 o'clock this afternoon, the body of Williamson Bacon, one of the founders of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., will be sent to Louisville, Ky., his birthplace, for burial.

Mr. Bacon died Wednesday afternoon from apoplexy after a short illness. He has been a resident of St. Louis for 13 years, during which time he has been prominently identified with financial interests in the city. He was 65 years old.

Mr. Bacon leaves one daughter, Mrs. Caroline D. Smith.

Don't think too hard about it—we did almost all the thinking necessary. Now about all you have to do is to make your selection.

W. A. BRADY WANTS THE BOER WAR SHOW

Theatrical Manager Thinks He Could Make a Hit With It in the East Next Year.

It has been learned that William A. Brady, owner of "The Pit," did not come to St. Louis a few days ago for the sole purpose of staging the pit scene in the performance at the Century Theater.

Mr. Brady has devised a much deeper and thicker plot. He came to buy the Boer war. He has had his eye on it for some time, and concluded to branch out as a sort of in and outdoor amusement promoter by buying the big South African spectacle now running at the Waldorf Astor.

The result of Mr. Brady's efforts are not wholly known, but it is said he has an option on the production and that he expects to make a hit in the East with it next season.

Maurice Kirby, who was here twice last season in advance of the Boer war, will succeed as a resident manager for the Boer war. Kirby is now running at the Imperial Theater. Mr. Kirby will come on from New York to relieve Mr. Kirby the last of the week.

Madame Gabrielle Rejane, whom Mr. Kirby is to manage in the United States for the next season, has gone to Cuba with her company, and will play at Havana several weeks before she returns to New York to begin her 12 weeks' tour of the United States.

Lulu Glaser will be at the Olympic Theater for the second time in December. "A Madcap Princess," the musical version of "When Knighthood Was in Flower," she will be preceded by "The Girl in the Red Velvet Gown," and will be followed by "The Girl in the Red Velvet Gown," and will be followed by "The Girl in the Red Velvet Gown."

The Grand is to have the Royal Lilliputians next week. The Lilliputians, who will be there a week, following will come "The Girl in the Red Velvet Gown," and will be followed by "The Girl in the Red Velvet Gown," and will be followed by "The Girl in the Red Velvet Gown."

"The Lion" in which Hal Godfrey and company are appearing at the Columbia this week, is a brand new sketch by Edmund Day. It was first tried out at Muskegon, Mich., one night last week, and St. Louis is one of the first of the big cities to see it. It was originally written for the Fair, and it is said that it was so good that it would live longer.

Felix Alexandre Gullmant is giving the last of his organ recitals at the World's Fair today, and with a few more he will have gone the way of the Garde Republicaine and all other good and great institutions of music which have given us joy at the Fair. M. Gullmant is in his 58th year, and it is unlikely that he will make this way again. To say we have enjoyed him and his art would be putting it mildly. Indeed, in this season of varied excellence and greatness the combination of the world's greatest organ and the world's greatest organist has received only its share of prominence at the big Fair, and we have not heard so much of M. Gullmant as we would have heard had he come here out of Fair season, when he might have had the musical platform to himself.

It will be many a day, indeed, ere we shall fail to see in our mind's eye this little man who is like Santa Claus—with his white hair and flowing beard; his roly-poly body; his exuberant manner; him sitting on the great high stool of the big organ; him swinging off and hurrying down to the edge of the platform, a knowledge with profound bowing the plaudits of his audience, and him stretching forth his arms to arouse the melodies of the great organ—a picture reminding for all the world of some little gnome whose magic touch provokes musical thunder from a mountain-side. So, too, will it be long ere there is indeed, in this season of varied excellence and greatness the combination of the world's greatest organ and the world's greatest organist has received only its share of prominence at the big Fair, and we have not heard so much of M. Gullmant as we would have heard had he come here out of Fair season, when he might have had the musical platform to himself.

DAVIS SATISFIED WITH TRIP'S RESULT

At End of Long Journey He Thinks West Virginia Will Go Democratic.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WAYNE, W. Va., Oct. 20.—"Wherever we have had opportunity to confer with local party leaders, we have heard of a number of Republicans who have announced their intention to vote the Democratic ticket. There is no dissatisfaction anywhere, as far as we have learned, among the Democrats, and all those who supported McKinley are now in line again."

We believe these are the best indications yet determined to have a fair election. The general belief among the party leaders is that West Virginia will go Democratic.

This is the expression of Vice-President-elect Henry G. Davis as he concluded his campaign of his own state. "We have traveled," he continued, "1500 miles during the past ten days. We have crossed the state six times east and west three times and once north and south. We have had meetings in twenty-eight cities and towns and have found it necessary in many cases to hold two separate meetings to accommodate the audience."

The number of people in attendance at all the meetings is estimated at 15,000. "We have come through all twenty-eight counties, being more than half the counties of the state and containing three-fourths of its population. We have been received everywhere with the most respectful attention and in most places with much enthusiasm."

From this statement, delivered by Mr. Davis at the last meeting of the trip, it can readily be seen that he is more than gratified with the reception he has had at the hands of the people of his own state.

He will confer with state leaders at Parkersburg today and remain there to attend the Bryan meeting Friday night.

He will accompany Mr. Bryan to Charleston for the meeting Saturday and then return to his home at Elkins.

Cut the Fuel Bill in Two

IN an ordinary soft coal stove, half of the coal rises in gas and promptly goes up the chimney. When you remember that gas is itself fine fuel, being used in all the large cities for cooking, heating and lighting, you realize how much is saved if the gas doesn't escape, but is held in the stove and burned.

Notice in this picture of Cole's Hot Blast how the draft burns the coal from the top. It discharges a blast of highly heated air over and through the body of fuel, thus distilling the gas from the fuel, oxidizing and burning it before its escape up the chimney. That is why

Cole's Original Hot Blast Saves Half the Fuel

This patented Hot Blast Draft doesn't work in leaky stoves, and that is one reason why imitations are failures. It really makes $3 soft coal last as long and burn as nicely as $9 hard coal. This wonderful stove burns anything—hard coal, soft coal, wood, coals, combustible rubbish—anything.
